THE HOUSING OF THE WORKING CLASSES ACTS, 1890 TO 1931.

(As amended by the Housing (Financial and Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1932.)

MARROWBONE LANE, SECTION I, COMPULSORY PURCHASE ORDER, 1936;
JAMES'S STREET AREA COMPULSORY PURCHASE ORDER, 1936;
NEWMARKET AREA COMPULSORY PURCHASE ORDER, 1936;
THORNCASTLE STREET AREA COMPULSORY PURCHASE ORDER, 1936, and
CRUMLIN AREA (NORTH) COMPULSORY PURCHASE ORDER, 1936.

COUNTY BOROUGH OF DUBLIN.

WHEREAS in pursuance of Section 15 of the Housing (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1931, the Corporation of Dublin have made and submitted to the Minister for Local Government and Public Health, for confirmation by him, compulsory purchase orders entitled the "Marrowbone Lane, Section 1, Compulsory Purchase Order, 1936"; "James's Street Area Compulsory Purchase Order, 1936"; "Newmarket Area Compulsory Purchase Order, 1936"; "Thorncastle Street Area Compulsory Purchase Order, 1936," authorising the said Corporation to purchase compulsorily the lands described in the schedules to the said Orders for the purposes of Part II. of the Housing (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1931.

WHEREAS in pursuance of Section 37 of the Housing (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1931, the Corporation of Dublin have made and submitted to the Minister for Local Government and Public Health, for confirmation by him, a compulsory purchase order entitled the "Crumlin Area (North) Compulsory Purchase Order, 1936," authorising the said Corporation to purchase compulsorily the lands described in the schedule to the said Order for the purposes of Part III. of the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890.

AND WHEREAS objections to the said Orders have been made by persons upon whom notices were served in relation thereto:

NOW, THEREFORE, the Minister for Local Government and Public Health hereby gives notice that he has instructed his Inspector, DENIS J. PROVED ON THE JOB!

FORD 8-CYL. TRUCKS

SET A NEW SALES RECORD!

Ford 8-Cyl. Trucks are First in sales in the I.F.S. because they are first in value. FORD sees "VALUE" as a combination of high quality at low price with superior performance at low cost. Registration figures (which mean sales) show that transport users agree with Ford's idea of value. Further evidence comes from the test records of Ford owners.

A CHOIC

FROM THE NORTHERN CAPITAL

Parliament Next Week : More Flax Needed : Patronage in City Hall : Physical Training : Educational Advancement

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Friday.

THE Northern Parliament will resume on Tuesday after the summer recess, when several important measures will be considered.

The Census Bill, which provides for the taking of the Census in Northern Ireland next spring, is on the Order Paper for second reading. Another important measure is one which proposes to revise and bring up-to-date the administration of public markets and tolls. It is expected that there will be some criticism of this measure, but as its provisions are fairly well known it is expected to pass into law without difficulty.

The Government has announced that it will follow the example of Great Britain in making pensions available to blind persons at 40 years of age—ten years earlier than at present. A bill will be introduced to give effect to this decision concurrently with similar legislation at Westminster This is in conformity with the established policy of the Government in keeping in step with Great Britain in social legislation. Other measures for consideration are Employment of Women and Young Persons Bill, and Teachers' Superannuation Bill. The former deals with the two-shift system of working in factories, and places upon the employer an obligation to notify the Ministry of Labour when the system is abolished or introduced in his factory. The Teachers Bill is to provide that the temporary sacrifice which the teachers made by the salary reduction in 1931 "will not adversely affect them for all time." The cost to the Exchequer will be about £2,000 a year. The programme of legislation for the autumn sittings is neither exhaustive nor controversial, and the sittings should terminate well before Christmas.

Flax Industry

The Northern Minister of Agriculture, Sir Basil Brooke, Bart., has given great encouragement to the Northern farmers in regard to the suggested flax marketing scheme.

The deputation from the Ulster Farmers' Union which discussed the project with the Minister are convinced that everything possible will be done to encourage flax growing in Northern Ireland, and that farmers will be able to secure an economic price. No definite scheme has been evolved yet, but all the suggestions put before the Minister at the Conference are to be carefully considered. It has been advocated from time to time that a tax should be imposed upon foreign flax imports, and 3d. per stone has been suggested, the proceeds to be utilised as a fund to provide subsidies for flax growers. There are difficulties, however, in imposing an import duty on foreign flax. Fully ninety per cent. of the flax used in the linen industry is imported, and if this raw material is to be saddled with an import duty Irish and Scotch spinners would be placed at a disadvantage in competition with continental spinners. Other methods may be evolved to help the farmer. One suggestion is that a Flax Board should take over the flax from the farmer after it has been pulled, and, by establishing central wretting factories, save the farmer from the unpleasant wretting operation and the subsequent scutching process. If this were attempted on a big scale more farmers would be induced to grow flax as a purely agricultural crop if these processing operations were eliminated. In a few years it may be possible to have a larger supply available of pure strain seed, which would bring the average yield of flax per acre up from 31 to 51 stones, and increase the value of the crop to the farmer by £7. Both these schemes would make flax a more valuable crop to the farmer.

Patronage in Civic Affairs

The resignation from the Belfast Corporation of Councillor F. J. Holland, a former High Sheriff and Deputy-Chairman of the Corporation Finance Committee, will be regretted for several reasons.

Councillor Holland has protested against the decision of the Corporation to rescind the Standing Order that all unskilled and semi-skilled labour required for Corporation work should be engaged through the Labour Exchange, and that the Corporation should engage such labour direct through the heads of the respective departments. He fears a return of a vicious system of patronage which formerly prevailed in some departments of the Corporation, and which some members described as equivalent to Tammany Hall administration. Councillor Holland took an active part in securing the reforms in civic administration which followed the revelations of the housing scandal, and has always exercised an independent judgment in civic affairs. It is, therefore, regretted that members of this type should decide to leave the Corporation, although his spirited protest may do something to awaken a sense of civic responsibility in all the citizens. As a business man identified with the flax supply branch of the linen industry, Councillor Holland brought to civic affairs a clear vision and business methods, uninfluenced by a political or parochial outlook. The great majority of the citizens will agree with him that it is a grave mistake not to continue to utilise the existing Labour Exchange for recruiting civic labour, instead of setting up what may prove a costly department to do the same work.

Vague charges have been made that certain members of the Labour Exchange exercise favouritism in the selection of names to be submitted to the Corporation departments, and that men who have been long out of employment and have exhausted their employment benefit are passed over in favour of others registered at the Exchange. No attempt has been made to prove these vague charges, and, in any event, it would be a simple matter to keep a check upon those sent for employment by the Exchange in the same way as the Tramway Committee does at present. Under this record system any workman who feels himself aggrieved through the Exchange system can have his case investigated by the Tramways Committee.

Councillor Holland has made a good case for the maintenance of a neutral and impartial administration, and it is not improbable that after a short experience of the vicious patronage system the majority of the Corporation will be anxious to return to the equitable method of administration they have so lightly thrown overboard.

Physical Training

The proposed Youth Training Movement which may be started in Great Britain to overcome the objection to conscription, and at the same time improve the physique of the nation, may be extended to Northern Ireland.

Germany has led the way in organised physical training of its young manhood and womanhood. Any such scheme would involve the provision of more playing fields and open-air swimming ponds and a gymnasium in every district. The Lord Mayor of Belfast (Sir Crawford McCullagh) recently appealed for further support for the King George Memorial Fund. A sum of £2,000 has been subscribed in Belfast, and the greater portion of this money is to be used for fulfilling the wish of His late Majesty that more playing fields should be provided throughout the country. It is an object which should appeal to all citizens, irrespective of class or creed, and it is not creditable to a city with a population of nearly half a million that only £2,000 has been subscribed. More general support for the fund is necessary, and the Lord Mayor has asked everyone to send a contribution, however small. Belfast is expanding rapidly, and new housing estates are growing up on the outskirts of the city. It is essential that playing fields should be provided at each of these centres before all the ground is absorbed for building purposes. The suggestion that Northern Ireland should have a Territorial Brigade associated with three of the Ulster regiments is another proposal which is worthy of consideration.

There are many thousands of the youth of Northern Ireland who would enjoy a territorial camp for several weeks each summer, and the physical training in such camps would enhance the physique of the young manhood of the province. While physical training has been greatly developed in recent years in Northern secondary schools, there are not the same opportunities for such training in the elementary schools, except in several of the large schools in Belfast. It is all the more necessary, therefore, that playing fields and physical culture centres should be provided.

Educational Advancement

The report of the Ministry of Education for the year 1935-'36, which has just been issued, is a record of educational advancement in the North—particularly in regard to the improvement in elementary school accommodation.

During the year sums approximating £130,000 were spent by the education authorities on building works completed during the year. Two-thirds of this expenditure went to provide seven new schools, with accommodation for 2,686 pupils. The remaining portion of the money was devoted to the improvement of some 240 transferred schools, 29 of which underwent extensive renovation, at a cost of over £40,000. The 50 per cent. grants sanctioned by the Ministry for voluntary school buildings—principally for Roman Catholic schools—amounted to an approximate sum of £20,000, based on an equivalent expenditure from funds locally provided. Since the Education Act was passed in 1923 117 schools have been provided by the local education authorities, including 19 in the City of Belfast, each capable of accommodating from 800 to over 1,000 pupils, and costing from £20,000 to £40,000 each. In addition, 509 schools have been transferred to the education authorities by local managers and trustees—making a total of 626 elementary schools directly under the control of these authorities.

There are still 1,149 voluntary schools, of which 65 are under statutory voluntary (4 and 2) committees. Seventy-nine thousand eight hundred children are attending the provided and transferred schools, and 92,200 children are in the voluntary schools, which, it will be seen, still provide the largest accommodation for the largest number of pupils. There has been a slight decrease in the attendance at the schools, and this has resulted in an increase in the unemployment among ex-students of the training colleges. It is hoped this unemployment may be only temporary. Some adjustment might be made in the number of teachers being trained in regard to religious denominations. There are 53,103 Church of Ireland children attending schools, compared with 61,050 Presbyterians; yet there are only 58 Church of Ireland students in the training colleges, compared with 144 Presbyterians; 99 Roman Catholic students are being trained for teaching positions, and there are 73,838 Roman Catholic pupils. There appears to be an excess of Presbyterian students compared with other denominations. There is no reference in the report to the religious or moral training of either the pupils in the schools or the teachers in training, although the importance of training pupils in good manners is stressed. This, apparently, is as near as the Ministry can get to recognition of responsibility for the religious and moral training of the children under its care.

AUCTION SALES

MESSRS. BATTERSBY AND CO.

To-day Messrs. Battersby and Co. announce a number of interesting auctions, which will take place at their premises, 39 Westmoreland street, Dublin, in the near future. On Thursday next they will offer as a going concern the grocery and provision shop at 5 Dean street, off New street, Dublin—a double-fronted shop. Naasyde, Grand Canal, Goldenbridge, Dublin, will be offered on the same day, with clear possession; it is a semi-detached two-storey residence. On the same day will be offered 11 Belgrove road, Clontarf—a modern residence—and 5 Ring corner shop at 31 Lower Clanbrassil street, suitable for a factory. Other attractive offers will be made on the following day, and on the 20th, 27th and 29th of this month.

MESSRS. THOS. DOCKRELL, SONS AND CO.

On Wednesday, 21st inst., this firm will dispose of the antique and high-class furniture at 15 Upper Baggot street. At their property salerooms, South Great George's street, on Thursday, 29th October, at 1.15 o'clock, they will offer for sale by public auction No. 21 Waverley avenue, Fairview. The house can be seen daily on order to view from the auctioneers from 3 to 6 o'clock.

APPRECIATION
From a Dublin Director

I am very glad you suggested the Midnight Blue for my Evening-Dress Suit—it is a splendid fit and my people say I look quite dignified in it. Original at BRYSON'S, Gentlemen's Tailor, 3 Church Lane, off College Green.

MURDER OF A DUBLIN WOMAN

No definite clue has yet been obtained by the Manchester and Salford police forces regarding the death of the Dublin woman, Mrs. Mary Holden, also known as Ethel Jones, whose body was found behind a hedge near Glazebury on Thursday.

A man who it was thought might be able to help the police in their inquiries was questioned at Leigh to-day.

Captain Hordern, Chief Constable of Lancashire, has stated that death was due to strangulation. The inquest will be opened on Monday.

WHEAT MADE MONEY FOR THIS FARMER

Last year he sowed wheat for the first time. He sowed early and for the good quality grain he produced he can now get 27/6 a barrel. Follow his example. Sow wheat this Winter and next season you too will be reaping a profitable crop.

Don't be put off by any idea that wheat is difficult to grow or demands very good land. Wheat can be grown successfully in every county and on practically every kind of soil. There's no doubt at all about this, because not so long ago Ireland grew 600,000 acres of wheat and produced most of its own requirements.

The farmer of to-day has advantages his grandfather never had. He has superior technical knowledge and better equipment. In addition, he is sure of his market and a guaranteed MINIMUM price. Wheat growing is a proved success.

IT WILL PAY YOU TO SOW WHEAT

GUARANTEED MINIMUM PRICES FOR NEXT YEAR

For wheat sold in September, October, November, or December, the MINIMUM price is fixed at 23/6 per barrel. For wheat sold after January 1st the MINIMUM price will be 26/- per barrel. These prices are for millable wheat bushelling 60 lbs. per barrel.

For wheat of higher or lower bushel weight the price will vary 3d. per lb., up or down as the case may be. These are the MINIMUM prices which also obtained this season. 27/6 per barrel on the farm is, however, now being paid for home-grown wheat of good quality.

BRAY DISTRICT COURT

HUSBAND AND WIFE

CLAIM FOR FOOD SUPPLIED

(BEFORE MR. L. PRICE.)

James C. Hutson, Rutland road, Bray, and his wife, Mrs. Kathleen Hutson, were sued by Eileen Spadaccini, Dartmouth square, Dublin, for £9 2s. 3d. for food and necessaries and money supplied to Mrs. Hutson, and for food supplied to one of both defendants' sons.

Mr. J. L. Lapedus, solicitor, who appeared for the plaintiff, said that the claim was for food which Mr. Hutson refused to supply to his wife, and which had been given to her by her sister, Miss Spadaccini.

Mr. J. L. Reilly, solicitor, who appeared for the defendant, said that steps were being taken by defendant for a judicial separation from his wife. Defendant put an advertisement in a Dublin morning paper that no credit was to be supplied to his wife. He did not refuse to maintain her, and had offered her £8 a month, provided she left the house, but she had refused that. Her sister was bound by the notice which had been published.

Mr. L. Price, D.J., said that the notice published did not relieve the husband of his legal liability to maintain his wife.

Miss Eileen Spadaccini, plaintiff, gave evidence of having supplied breakfast, dinner, tea and supper to Mrs. Hutson and to Mrs Hutson's youngest son.

Mrs. Kathleen Hutson said that she was married to the defendant in 1928, and lived on friendly terms with her husband until the 15th August last, when they had an argument. Mr. Hutson had allowed her £15 a month to keep him, his four sons and herself. She did all the work of the house

THE AMERICAN MARKETS

A QUIET ADVANCE ON WALL STREET

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

NEW YORK, Friday.

Operations on Wall Street, though somewhat colourless, were again quite active. The list continued to move unobtrusively forward, and prices as a whole ended on the higher side after a turnover of 2,240,000 shares. Realising in the afternoon was again well taken, and apart from a few "soft-spots," the general trend was restrictedly higher. The Oil division ruled firm. Socony Vacuum was very active, with reports of heavy London buying of that stock. The market closed firm. Advances of fractions to $1 were recorded by the Rail, Mining, Industrial, Motor, and Chemical divisions, but a number of the pivotals elsewhere—including Case, Deere, U.S. Smelting, Johns-Manville, Western Union, and Wright Aeronautical—finished lower.

The Dun and Bradstreet Agency reports that demand by consumers is widening in practically all lines of merchandise.

Sterling exchange opened ½ up at 4.90¼, and improved to 4.90½ during the morning. The rate dropped to 4.90¼ in the afternoon, but finally advanced and closed ¼ higher—compared with the previous close—at 4.90½.

Silver was unchanged at 44½.

Coffee on spot closed very steady, with Rio unchanged and Santos 4c. up. Rio No. 7, 7½; Santos No. 4, 9¾. Futures opened very steady, with Rio 8 to 5 points up in the old contract, and 2 to 6 points up in the new "A" contract. Santos opened at 9 to 14 points higher. New outside and Brazilian buying and covering on higher cost and freight offerings, and an improved demand for spot, met with profit-taking and liquidation in old Rio contracts. The close was irregular, with Rio generally 5 points down in the old contract and 1 point up to 2 points down in the new "A" contract. Santos closed 2 to 8 points higher. Futures (as is Rio No. 7)—Closing options—December, 3.41 (3.50); May, 3.46 (3.55).

Sugar on spot closed steady and unchanged at 3.40. Futures were quiet, but steady, on new outside and commission house buying, coupled with light offerings and the continued steadiness of the spot market. The close was steady at 1 point lower to 2 points higher. Closing options—November, 2.47 (2.46); December, 2.45 (2.45); January, 2.47 (2.46); March, 2.46 (2.44); May, 2.46 (2.45); July, 2.46 (2.45); September 2.47 (2.46).

Cotton on spot closed quiet and 10 points down at 12.29. Futures opened steady at 1 point down to 4 points up. Prices early advanced on trade and foreign buying, together with a scarcity of contracts and comparatively light hedging, but buyers were cautious, and the market was easily influenced by small orders. Selling in the March option by co-operative interests occurred in the late dealings, but the close was steady, with prices 5 points lower to 2 higher. At New Orleans spot closed unchanged at 12.30. Futures opened at 2 points down to unchanged, and closed 3 points lower to 5 higher.

Rubber Futures — No. 1 contract—Tendency steady, 4 in 5 points up. Closing options—Oct. 16.38 (16.34), Dec. 16.48 (16.44), Jan. 16.51 (16.47), March 16.58 (16.54), May 16.66 (16.61), July 16.74 (16.69), Sept. 16.81 (16.76). Outside prices—Tendency quiet. First latex crepe spot 17 buyers, smoked ribbed sheet spot 16⅞ buyers, 16½ sellers; do. Nov.-Dec. 16½ buyers; do. Jan.-Feb.-March 16⅜ buyers, 16⅝ sellers.

TWO TYPICAL REFORMERS

TURGOT AND SIEYES

CONCLUDING ARDILAUN LECTURE

"TWO Typical Reformers—Turgot and Sieyès," were discussed by Professor J. H. Clapham, D.Litt., in his concluding lecture of the series on "France Before the Revolution," at Alexandra College, Dublin, yesterday.

Monsieur Briére, Chancellor of the French Legation, presided.

Dr. Clapham said that Turgot was from the governing class and Sieyès from the bottom edge of the governing class that would have liked to govern, but did not. Turgot was born in 1727 and Sieyès in 1748. The former did not live to see the Revolution, dying in 1781, while Sieyès not only lived through the whole Revolution, but—unbelievable as it might seem—far into the nineteenth century.

Turgot's father occupied a position nearly analogous to what might be called Lord Mayor of Paris. He was the Provost of Merchants, a position constantly given to men of his type. He was a successful Provost of Merchants. The subject of the present lecture, being the Provost's third son, was destined for a career in the Church, and went to a seminary in Paris—the Sorbonne—which was a little clerical college of the day much like many of the colleges of Oxford and Cambridge.

A MAN OF LETTERS

In the course of his studies Turgot lost his vocation, if he had ever had one. Unlike many men of his time, his scruples precluded him from taking Orders. Fortunately, his family being well-to-do, he could afford to wait and become a candidate in what here would be called the Civil Service. He also became a distinguished man of letters. He was a shy man, who lived o life of remarkable simplicity. Brilliant with his pen, but a little awkward in his speech, he would have done no good in a Parliament. At that time nearly all thinkers had become extremely critical of the control of industry. A regular doctrine of laissez-faire was being elaborated—of leave economic things alone and you will get the best results. The idea was popular in England and Italy, and even in Germany, in the middle of the 18th century. Turgot wholeheartedly accepted the idea of leaving the whole economic life of the country free, and approached the Government with this bias against control in the economic sphere, but not in the political. He was in favour of constitutional reform, but was not dogmatic in these matters.

In 1761 he was appointed Intendant of the rather remote and very poor district of Limoge—the name might be remembered as the place where unsuccessful French Generals were supposed to be sent during the Great War. He spent thirteen years of his life always hungering for Paris, but doing good work in his province as a practical administrator. He tried to improve in detail the system of taxation and government, the main outlines of which he thought very bad. He worked very hard to improve the levying of the Taille, and was brought up against a formidable problem—the survey of the land—and he was never able to get the Taille reformed as he would have wished. He did get rid of some abuses, and the peasants loved him and regretted his leaving the province. He overhauled the corvée, or labour tax, and humanised the working of the militia. He encouraged agriculture and popularised the potato, which the French had only just begun to cultivate. In every way he moved in the direction of freedom, but the movement was slow. In 1774 he was called to Paris as a Minister.

CONTROLLER-GENERAL

For a few weeks he was Minister of Marine and then was promoted to the formidable office of Controller-General of Finances. Nobody ever held this office long enough to carry through any effective reform. He was only in office eighteen months and some of the financial difficulties of the French finance system he was never able to touch. The taxes had just been formed for a period of six years, and there was very little that he could do without a great deal of new legislation in the form of royal edicts. He was not an accommodating person, and people about the King came to the conclusion that Turgot was a busybody and a nuisance. In 1776 he decided to try his strength and get certain Edicts pushed through the Council of Ministers and accepted by the Parlement. Parlement refused to register the new edicts. Eventually he got the King to order their registration, and then the King swung round and agreed to get rid of Turgot. He made a desperate effort to save himself, but was dismissed and relieved of office. He died eight years before the Revolution. Many of his friends lived to see the Revolution, but most of them died by the guillotine or went into exile.

SIEYES

Sieyès, said Dr. Clapham, might be described as priest in spite of himself. Like Turgot, he was educated to be a priest, but unlike Turgot, he was ordained a priest after every scintilla of the Christian religion had left him. His father was a small official—a collector of King's Dues. His mother was connected with the lower ranks of the nobility, and the family hovered on the lower edge of the governing classes. Sieyès was not only critical of the Roman Catholic Church, but of religion in general. He was an abbé, and took up the business of ecclesiastical administration. He was given a canonry and became secretary to his bishop, but he was not a hypocrite, and never preached a sermon or heard a confession.

In the year immediately before the Revolution he was Vicar-General of the Diocese of Chartres. When the Revolution began he was given a great political opportunity. In 1737 he made an experiment in democratic local government. Sieyès, unlike Turgot, had got a complete theory of how a country should be organised. He was an extraordinarily confident man, and believed he should seize the opportunity to put his theories in practice.

HIS IDEALS

In his early schemes he allowed the King to continue as a kind of figurehead, but would really have preferred an elected President. He wanted the law made uniform, which it was not. He wanted free speech and a Press completely free; a system of national education and fundamental reform in taxation, and in 1789 wrote the most discussed pamphlet that was ever written.

The most important thing that he advocated was the division of France into departments, in his desire to break down provincial feeling. He succeeded in this historical achievement, and it was remarkable that he did succeed. He advocated repre-

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BRITAIN'S AGRICULTURE

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The letter contained in your issue of October 3rd raises some points of more than personal interest, and I am grateful to the Secretary of the Rural Reconstruction Association for giving me the opportunity of contributing to their further discussion. If the latter will read my "Nemesis of Economic Nationalism," he will be able to judge more accurately how far his statement that mine is a mind which relies on abstract economic theories falls short of the whole truth.

I agree that economic goods form only a minor and subordinate factor in the "good life" of the individual or the nation, but I also agree with the B.B.C. jester who maintained that, although money does not constitute happiness, "it does enable one to be miserable with comfort."

If an individual, in pursuit of his own ideal of the good life, decides to become a vegetarian, his decision has some infinitesimal effect on the economic welfare of those who live by producing non-vegetarian foods. But "de minimis non curat lex," and for all practical purposes we are justified in saying that his decision is entirely a matter for himself. But if half the wheat consumed in Great Britain is to be grown in that country the effect will be to render some 20 or 30 million acres of wheat-growing land in overseas countries surplus to requirements, and this is not a situation which either the moralist or the statesman interested in Commonwealth or international relations can afford to contemplate with indifference. It is a nice point to decide to what extent a nation, in the pursuit of its own utopian ideals, is justified in damaging the economic welfare of other political communities. In my view, a nation so inextricably mixed up with the economic structure of the international economy as Great Britain has traditionally been is not justified in the pursuit of any utopian ideals which involve any such sacrifice.

As a matter of fact, even the limited policy of Procrustean agricultural leg-pulling indulged in by Mr. Elliot has only failed to have serious reactions in Commonwealth relations because President de Valera had thoughtfully provided a condition of Anglo-Irish "economic war" which enabled the shocks of agricultural restriction to be concentrated on a thoroughly solvent creditor nation like the Irish Free State, instead of being distributed in small amounts among the sister nations of the Commonwealth. The financial and monetary structure of some of those debtor communities is so delicate that they could not have withstood even a proportion of the shock which has hitherto failed to ruin our Irish community.

History will surely assign a high place to President de Valera for his vitally necessary co-operation with British politicians in a policy which would otherwise have shaken the temple of Empire. And history will also have a word to say about Mr. Elliot and the other blind Samsons of the Rural Reconstruction Association. Even as it is, if any attempt is made to give practical effect to anything like the policy advocated in this book, the next Imperial Conference will not be a tea party—unless, perhaps, of the "Boston" variety.

Fortunately, there are signs of returning economic sanity, and, with two-fifths of the British population starving for precisely those additional food elements which British and Irish agriculture is ideally situated to supply, there is room for any amount of desirable expansion of British and Irish agriculture without curtailing in any way the influx of cheap food from overseas countries, which is so necessary from every point of view.

Much of the agricultural produce which comes to Great Britain from the Argentine "is not paid for by manufactured goods," but the payment for it is set-off against interest and dividends in respect of British investments in the Argentine. True; but did the original investment of some £4,000 millions of British money abroad give no employment to British export industry? Is the rest of the world now fully and completely saturated with "capital goods," and must certain British export industries continue to languish because the fertilising stream of British foreign investment has (for the time being?) come to an end?

While apologising for using up so much of your valuable space, may I say, in conclusion, that I appreciate the spirit of friendly controversy which animates your correspondent's letter? I suspect a certain fundamental sympathy of ultimate ends, but this is a question of means, and those of us who live in a non-British agricultural community are better able to appreciate where the economic shoe pinches.

According to the Irish Trade Journal, the gross output of Irish Free State agriculture was £62 millions in 1926-27, £65 millions in 1929-30, and £41 millions in 1934-35. This "abstract economic" fact is one which only those who know the Irish countryside can realise in all its pathos of silent suffering and blighted lives.—Yours, etc.,

THE R.I.A.C.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In Thursday's issue of the Irish Times there appeared some paragraphs dealing with the fact that Mr. G. V. B. Cooke was proceeding to Paris to represent the Royal Irish Automobile Club at the conference of the Association Internationale des Automobile-Clubs Reconnus.

In these paragraphs it was stated that "this is the first time that the R.I.A.C. has sent a representative direct to the conference at which is arranged the annual motor racing calendar." I beg to point out that this hardly gives an accurate idea of the facts. Actually, representatives of this Club were sent direct to Paris in connection with the application for dates for the Irish Grand Prix, which first showed the possibilities of car racing on the Phœnix Park course. Last year also a representative of this Club attended the conference to support our application for a date for the Phœnix Park race which duly took place last month.

An inaccuracy that might give rise to misconceptions is contained in the statement that "Irish clubs are affiliated to the R.I.A.C., which is the controlling body of motor racing in this country." Actually, of course, the jurisdiction of the R.I.A.C. extends only over the Irish Free State.

It is also inaccurate to say that no other country may hold an event within eight days of the Limerick Grand Prix. The ruling of the International Sporting Code on this point is that there shall be an interval of at least fifteen days between the dates of classic events (in which category none of the Free State events has a place), and at least of five days between those of any other international competitions.

I shall be greatly obliged if you will take an early opportunity of publishing these corrections.

I would point out that at the last moment we made an application for an additional date to those mentioned in your article. This date is the 17th of July, on which it is planned to hold the Leinster Trophy Race at Tallaght.—Yours, etc.,

E. J. MECREDY, Secretary.
Royal Irish Automobile Club, Dawson street, Dublin, October 9th, 1936.

sentative government all through, from parish councils upwards. He believed representative government to be the cure of all evils.

Dr. Clapham said that he would not discuss the subject, in view of controversy here at the present moment; but Sieyès wanted to have a single chamber, regarding the dual chamber system as a superstition. He held that any advantage there might be in two chambers could be acquired by a complicated system of committees. People, said the lecturer, made fun of that idea, but, considering the present state of the world, he thought it worth considering.

Sieyès was remarkable in the fact that he held that his programme should only hold good for ten years. At the end of that time, he said, they might have better ideas. Many of Sieyès's ideas were only brought out when the Revolution was already in progress. He won his position by means of two or three brilliant pamphlets, and from that time onward he was the political modeller of the Constitution and its high priest.

The Constitution of 1791 was drawn according to his model. He was consulted again and drew up another in 1793, another in 1795, and a fourth in 1799. Sometimes he was listened to and sometimes ignored, but he was regarded as a sort of consulting expert in constitutions. He had a part in the setting up of Napoleon Bonaparte, and thought that he might set up himself. After Waterloo he went into exile at Brussels for 15 years, but came back to Paris, where he died in 1836.

COMPARISON OF HARBOURS

BELFAST VISITORS IN DUBLIN

CORDIAL WELCOME BY PORT BOARD

THE Belfast Harbour Commissioners received a very cordial welcome yesterday when they paid a return visit to Dublin, at the invitation of the Chairman and members of the Dublin Port and Docks Board, who were entertained by the Commissioners at Belfast in June last.

The following visitors arrived at the Shelbourne Hotel, Dublin, yesterday morning:—

Officials—Mr. M. J. Watkins (general manager and secretary), Mr. W. Y. Chamberlain (harbour engineer), Captain J. McIntyre (harbour master), Mr. James Alexander (secretary's chief assistant), Mr. R. Sinclair (traffic superintendent), Major A. H. H. Armstrong (superintendent of Harbour Police), Mr. T. N. Burke (superintendent of cranes, etc.), and Mr. W. Mateer (accountant).

The party were received by Mr. C. M. O'Kelly (Chairman of the Dublin Port and Docks Board), Captain A. S. Gordon (Vice-Chairman), the Lord Mayor (Alderman A. Byrne, T.D.), Mr. David Barry, O.B.E.; Mr. T. R. McCullagh, Mr. P. Leonard, Mr. P. J. Munden, Mr. J. M. Irwin, Councillor P. Belton, T.D.; Mr. D. Coyle, Mr. T. F. Laurie, Councillor D. Healy, Mr. M. Birmingham, Mr. P. Magrath, Mr. J. J. Halpin, Mr. T. O'Connor, Mr. D. J. Twohig, Mr. J. J. Moore, Councillor W. J. O'Hara, Mr. C. D. Hewat, Mr. D. J. Figgis—members of the Board; and Mr. E. H. Bailey (secretary), Mr. R. F. Lowe (assistant-secretary), Mr. J. Mallagh (engineer-in-chief), Captain J. H. Webb, R.N.R., O.B.E. (Harbour Master) and Mr. A. J. Hughes (manager, Custom House Docks).

From the Shelbourne Hotel the visitors were conveyed in 'buses and motor cars to the Ballast Office, Westmoreland street, passing on the way the Mansion House, over which three flags flew at half-mast—the Irish Free State flag, the flag of Ulster and the City Arms flag. Sir Ernest Herdman noticed the compliment paid by the Lord Mayor, and in recognising it offered condolences to Alderman Byrne on the tragic deaths of the three heroic city firemen.

The visitors inspected a model of the harbour, and other interesting objects and documents relative to the Port at the Ballast Office, and they were taken by members of the Port Board on a tour of inspection of the Custom House Docks, the tobacco warehouses, the vaults and the new bridges at the docks entrance.

THE LUNCHEON

From the docks the visitors proceeded to the Dolphin Hotel, where they were entertained to luncheon.

Mr. C. M. O'Kelly (Chairman of the Port and Docks Board) proposed the toast of the Board's guests, and said that he would very much like to tell them how much their visit was appreciated and how gratified the members of the Dublin Board were to have so many Belfast friends with them, taking an interest in the Port of Dublin. He regretted the inability of their esteemed Lord Mayor and Commissioner Sir Crawford McCullagh to be present.

Proceeding, Mr. O'Kelly said:—On the occasion of our visit to Belfast we were all greatly impressed with your Harbour and its shipping facilities, not to speak of your wonderful ship-building yards. You certainly have reason to be very proud of your port. We were interested in your extensive reclamation of lands, which is also another testimony of your foresight. After lunch you will see our reclamations. We have recently leased to the Irish National Oil Refinery Company 70 acres, which, we believe, will prove a great asset to our port.

We are confronted with many difficulties and problems, which, I think, you will appreciate. It is much more difficult to make an ancient port like ours, that dates back as far as the eleventh century, modern than it is to maintain a modern port. I do not intend going back to that date, nor will I inflict figures on you at this stage, but I would like to give you a few dates, starting from the first construction of the North and South Quays.

The first construction of the North and South Quay walls was carried out in the years 1707-1786; the deepening of the North Quays was commenced in 1864 and was completed in 1907; the South Quay deepening began in 1870 and was finished in 1888, except for City and George's quays, which were deepened in 1907-1911 and 1911-1913, respectively. North Quay extension was commenced in 1871 and the work finished in 1884. The final completion was commenced in 1934. The contsruction of the Custom House and Custom House Docks was completed in 1791; Alexandra Wharf was constructed during the years 1903-1911; Alexandra quay, our deep water berth, was commenced in 1922.

DUBLIN'S PROGRESS

TheLord Mayor of Dublin, supporting the proposal, said that he welcomed their visitors, and he expressed the hope that their great city would prosper. He offered its public men their sympathy in the burdens they had to bear, and hoped that with the extension of trade their employers would be enabled to give much-needed employment. He hoped that their shipping yards, already busier, would soon be in full swing and also the linen industry. When he was in America he told people that Ireland could sell them many things, and he did not forget the linen industry.

Just now there was a cloud over the City of Dublin because not fifty yards away lay the three bodies of heroic firemen who had given their lives that others might live.

Continuing, the Lord Mayor said that he could tell them that Dublin improved from day to day. There was increased employment in it, though the population had grown greatly. Everything that a municipality could do to improve conditions as to the employment and housing the people was being done. He hoped that the example of the Port and Docks Board and the Belfast Harbour Commissioners would be followed by other bodies, as such visits helped to bring about better feeling through the whole country, and that the prosperity of one part would be shared in by the other.

SIR E. HERDMAN'S REPLY

Sir Ernest Herdman, responding to the toast, said:—I would like to say how pleased my colleagues and I are to be with you to-day to renew friendships and enjoy your hospitality, to visit your delightful city, and to see with our own eyes your harbour, with its excellent equipment and facilities. We regretted very much having to ask you to postpone our visit originally arranged for August, but to have come at that time would have meant that only a very few Commissioners could have travelled—the great majority being on holiday—and some of us anxious to see your port would have been disappointed. From our experience to-day it is quite evident that neither our welcome nor your hospitality has been lessened by the delay, and certainly our appreciation of your kindness has not diminished.

There is nothing, I think, which those interested in harbour administration enjoy more than a "busman's holiday," nor, to my mind, is there anything more helpful to members of a Harbour or Docks Board than an inspection of other ports, as there is always some development or innovation of interest to be seen. Naturally, being all Irishmen, there is a certain rivalry, between the Ports of Dublin and Belfast, but it is a healthy and friendly one, actuated only by a desire to do what is best for the benefit of those we represent at our respective ports.

History tells us that the Port of Dublin came into being at a much earlier date than that of Belfast, and that its creation was the result of a long struggle against natural difficulties over which the determination of your predecessors prevailed. We, to-day, see how wise they were in their generation, and how earnestly and effectively their successors have followed them. I would take this opportunity to congratulate the members of the Dublin Port and Docks Board on the fine and up-to-date port which has resulted from foresight and enterprise.

I am glad to see by the tonnage figures published in your annual accounts that your trade is gradually increasing, and that you were able to show a record figure for the year 1935. Belfast was in the same happy position, so that we can congratulate each other. The proposed erection on your estate of an oil refinery—the first to be built in Ireland—is a matter of very great interest and importance. I hope that the project will meet with all success, and prove a source of gratification to all concerned.

We are glad, indeed, to have this opportunity of renewing old friendships and forming new ones, and we shall carry back with us pleasant recollections of a happy and enjoyable visit.

On behalf of the Belfast Harbour Commissioners, I extend all good wishes for the future prosperity of the Port and Harbour of Dublin, which to-day we have had the privilege of inspecting. On behalf of my colleagues and on my own behalf, I thank you once again for the great kindness shown to us, and, before sitting down, I would ask your permission to allow me to ask my colleagues to bring the toast of "The Dublin Port and Docks Board."

Mr. D. Healy also spoke.

TOUR OF INSPECTION

After luncheon the party drove to the North Wall quay extension, where a Dublin Port and Docks Board dredger was pumping sand—dredged from the river bed—into a space which is being reclaimed for new warehouses for the oversea trade. They went on, past the oil companies' storage plants on the Alexandra road, to the site of the new Irish oil refinery.

On this 60-acre site men were engaged in levelling operations, and a big steam shovel was moving sand from the hills formed by the pumps which had brought the "spoil" from the dredgers.

Afterwards a visit was paid to the Dublin Port Milling Company's works, where officials of the company conducted the visitors around the starch extraction plant, and explained its operation.

In the new "liner hall," built to facilitate the foreign passenger traffic now passing through the Port of Dublin, tea was served, and before catching their train for Belfast the representatives of the Belfast Harbour Commissioners visited the Mansion House, where the Lord Mayor held a reception in their honour. All of them spoke with appreciation of the work of the Dublin Port and Docks Board.

NATIONAL CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL.

The Committee of Management of the National Children's Hospital held their monthly meeting on Thursday, October 8th. The Right Hon. Viscount Powerscourt K.P. presided.

Also present—S. H. Guilford, Esq.; C. J. Macdougald, Esq.; Dr. Trevor N. Smith, H. D. Pack-Beresford, Esq.; T. G. Moorhead, Esq., M.D.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read, confirmed and signed, and those of the House and Finance Committee approved. The usual routine business was transacted, and cheques were drawn in favour of the September accounts.

The Committee return sincere thanks for the following contributions:—Miss Leared, £1; Miss Boswell, £1.

The Matron gratefully acknowledges the following gifts:—Flowers—Mrs. Hamilton Osgood. Fruit—G. M. Jacob, Esq.; Mrs. Jameson, the Rev. G. S. Nowlan, the Rev. W. A. Campion, the Rev. — Oswald. Books—The Hotel Pelletier, G

The Buffet Cars

A propos these new buffet cars on the railways, about which they are making such a song and dance in England, may I point out that this very desirable innovation is no novelty in Ireland? The Great Northern Railway has been running buffet cars ever since May last on four trains daily between Dublin and Belfast, and, from a short time ago, on two trains between Belfast and Derry.

And very pleasant cars they are, with as cheerful a bar as ever a man has sat at. Gone are the days when you strode with a self-conscious look into the tea car, and sat at attention while you discoursed a severely standardised tea. Nowadays you wander carelessly into the buffet car. If you like, you can sit on a high stool at the bar and put your foot on the rail for a drink and a snack; or, if not, you can park in a comfortable chair in a decent, sloppy attitude, and have sustenance brought to you in the shape of tea, or snacks, or what you will.

On my last journey Northwards I spent the two hours from Swords to Lisburn in this or that part of the buffet car, sampling one variety of food—I said food!—after another. And it was certainly one of the most pleasant journeys I ever passed; for I have travelled many times by train between Dublin and Belfast, and the journey had become monotonous. But the new cars have given it a fresh interest.

A Desmond Geraldine

Among our visitors this week we had a Desmond Geraldine in Captain J. B. Fitzgerald, of Walton, Buckinghamshire. He is a son of the late Mr. Peter Fitzgerald, of County Limerick, and a cousin of the Knight of Kerry. Captain Fitzgerald is the husband of the former Lady Moyra Dawson Damer—a sister of the Earl of Portarlington.

Since he settled in Buckinghamshire he and Lady Moyra have gone in for bloodstock breeding, and they are annual vendors at Doncaster—a fact which speaks volumes for the quality of their enterprise. This year they have a fine crop of foals at Walton. One of these is particularly noteworthy; for it is a colt by King Salmon, and is the first foal of the first crop of that sire

Two years ago Lady Moyra sold a Blandford filly at Doncaster—one of the few in the list that year. She was purchased by the late King, and after winning a race at Newmarket early this season for his present Majesty, has been sent to the stud. It is also interesting to hear that Captain Fitzgerald has secured a nomination for his mare, Talanta, to Windsor Lad, and another to Bahram for one of his other mares.

But, perhaps, for once I found a more interesting topic than horse-breeding when I listened to Captain Fitzgerald retailing the story of his ancestress, the famous Countess of Desmond, who lived to be a hundred and twenty. But I could not get him to agree that the Geraldines were descended from Nesta of Wales, as he declared he did not mind having it said they came from France, but—Wales!

Hats and the Ego

A medical student, a friend of mine, is firm in his conviction that modern woman expresses the ego in the hat she wears.

The mondaine type wears the very latest model at the very latest angle. In an age of highbrows and pseudo-intellectuals she knows that a woman's first duty is to be beautiful. The athletic girl puts on her hat or beret just anyhow. She has no time for footling details while there are horses and hockey matches in the world. The timid woman is easily led, and becomes a ready victim to the hypocritical sales-lady's "Just your hat, Modom," and comes out of the shop the dazed purchaser of an expensive model suited neither to her age nor type. The middle-aged woman, grasping vainly at fleeting youth, will wear absurdly juvenile headwear that only adds to her years.

And finally there is the downright, honest-to-goodness type. There is no modern nonsense about her as she pulls her hat agressively down over her forehead. "What was good enough for her mother is good enough for her."

Back Again

Miss Barbara Jameson is back again in Ireland, and is installed at her Co. Louth headquarters, from where she hunted last year. When I saw her at the bloodstock sales on Thursday she looked, as usual, very smart in a Stiebel model suit of red. One rarely sees a Stiebel model in this country nowadays, what with tariffs and all the rest.

Miss Jameson purchased Pride of Munster on Thursday. She hopes to do well with him, and when I met her she was pleased with her bargain. Pride of Munster is now five years old, with the Macardle Memorial Cup—a two-mile steeplechase—to his credit. Miss Jameson has a runner to-day in the Irish Cesarewitch.

Since she was last here this young sportswoman has spent a great deal of her time in Paris, but she is delighted to be back again with hunting near at hand.

Bicycle Bells

When a Dublin pedestrian escapes by the skin of his teeth from the cyclist who rushes down upon him without any preliminary ringing of his bell—probably he has no bell to ring—he quite fails to give that cyclist credit for being a psychologist. Yet so he is, if we accept the teaching of one of the first bicycle-owners in this city.

That pioneer wrote: "The sounding of a bell as an alarm of the approach of a cyclist is neither useful nor necessary. Personally, I make very little use of my bell in Ireland, whereas in England I ring it on all occasions. My reason is that in Ireland pedestrians are much more inclined to jump or rush back wildly: it is best, therefore, to dodge them. In England they seem to take the sounding of the bell in a rational manner, and stand their ground."

He said nothing, however, of the nerve-shattering whistle with which many cyclists advance upon those who would cross the street.

Colm O Lochlainn

Mr. Colm O Lochlainn, whose marriage was announced in the papers a few days ago, must be one of the most versatile geniuses in Dublin. Besides being a director of a very celebrated press, he is a lecturer in the National University in Irish and also in the History of Printing. He has a speaking knowledge of most European languages, is very prominent in the Irish folklore movement, and actually finds time to edit a magazine, "The Irish Book-lover." He is a leading member of An Oige, the rambling organisation, and also owns a yacht, in which he tours the Irish const nearly every summer.

The Golden Book, in which contributors to the building of the new Liverpool Cathedral sign their names, is a product of his workmanship, and is regarded by English authorities as a masterpiece in the craft of bookbinding.

It is of interest to record that he met his wife, Miss MacInerny, as a student in the university. I understand that the newly-wedded pair are at present travelling in Germany.

The Tug of War

I doubt if there is any form of sport more popular in Ireland than the tug-of-war. Anyone who attends a meeting of local athletes in any part of the country must have noticed the fact for himself. The races and high jumps are all very well, but the enthusiasm aroused by the inevitable tug-of-war must be seen to be believed.

Some of the spectators at the recent motor race in the Phœnix Park had an opportunity of seeing for themselves the reactions of Irishmen to the feel of a rope in their hands—a nicely taut rope. At the mouth of one of the side-roads such a rope was stretched, and behind it stood a line of onlookers. It was too much for them, and, loosening the two ends, they divided themselves into two parties and had a splendid tug-of-war. The interesting thing about it was its effect upon the crowd just there, who found it quite impossible to concentrate upon the race while a tug-of-war was going on.

TRINITY COLLEGE NOTES

RE-ENTER THE RESIDENT STUDENTS

THE NEW COLLEGE CALENDAR

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

ALTHOUGH Arts lectures do not begin until Monday week, the College has assumed almost the normal "term-time" appearance, and the great majority of resident students have once more taken up their residence. Another sign of the rising academic population may be observed in the increase in the number of students dining on Commons. The early part of this week has been sacred to the devotees of "Little-Go," who, massed on the Examination Hall steps, present a spectacle of unparalleled learning. Tuesday last saw the pre-Registration Examination in Physics and Chemistry, and also the Entrance Examination for the Engineering School, while Wednesday heralded the beginning of the Medical School lectures, which usually precede the Arts lectures by some days. To-day is the second day of the B.A. degree, and on Monday the examination for the Higher Diploma in Education will be held. The autumn Commencements take place in the Public Theatre on Wednesday at two o'clock, and the following day the Second Autumn Entrance begins.

Society Preparations

The "Opening Meeting" season is fast approaching, and harassed auditors and presidents are making their final endeavours to ensure that there will be no hitch in the proceedings. Apart from the two major societies—the College Historical Society and the University Philosophical Society, there are about sixteen other College societies which will be holding opening meetings during the next six weeks, ranging in their scope from Law to Experimental Science, and from Theology to Mathematics.

Another Examination Success

It is pleasant to record the success of yet another graduate in the recent Civil Service Examinations for the British Civil Service, and his many friends will join in congratulating Mr. C. A. Herbert on being the fifth Trinity man this year to gain this distinction. Mr. Herbert, who is a Scholar and Moderator in Experimental Science, took a prominent part in the life of the University. He was President of the University Philosophical Society during the past session, and has also been editor of T.C.D.

Many students took advantage of the Lady Ardilaun Lectures, which were delivered this week at the Alexandra College, to hear Professor J. H. Clapham, Hon. D.Litt., Vice-Provost of King's College, Cambridge. Professor Clapham, who is Professor of Economic History at Cambridge, delivered four lectures on the subject of "France Before the Revolution." It is probable that the attendance of Trinity men would have been even greater were it not for the fact that so many examinations are in progress.

The New Calendar

The new College Calendar for the coming year, which will be on sale next week, contains a number of interesting innovations, both of an academic and disciplinary character. Of first importance will be the regulations for the new degree of Bachelor in Letters, which were adopted by the Board during the last academic year. There is also a new prize called the Newport White Prize, which will be awarded for Greek Testament, and a new Diploma in Biblical Studies has been established. English composition has been added to the subjects for the Engineering School Entrance Examination, and Hebrew has been added to the subjects on the Pass course in the Sophister years, and may also be taken in the B.A. Degree examination. Changes have taken place in the Moderatorship courses in English, German, Irish, Spanish and Hebrew, and in the Scholarship course in History, while new courses have been prescribed for Honours Scholarships and Moderatorships in Classics and in French. Geography may now be taken as a subject for Honours and for Moderatorship under the heading of Natural Science (C), and of particular interest is the announcement that, in and after 1938, Scholarships may be awarded in Legal Science and in Economics and Political Science. It is proposed to introduce a new regulation concerning eligibility for the Higher Diploma in Education, but this change will not be effective until after October, 1937.

Unsatisfactory Progress

The Medical School will learn with interest that a new regulation has been made by which the Board reserves the right to exclude from the School of Physic any student whose progress it deems to be unsatisfactory. A new rule concerning the hours during which women may be in College announces that "Unless by permission of the Provost, women must leave College not later than 6 o.m., save when they are attending those evening functions to which they are admitted; and they may also remain in College, without this condition, till 9 p.m. on the day of the College Races." Thus the honoured custom of Trinity Week receives the sanction of official blessing.

HOSPITALS AND SWEEPSTAKES

THE CASE OF THE MEATH

HEAVY FALLING AWAY IN SUBSCRIPTIONS

THE future of the Meath Hospital was dealt with by Mr. Henry Stokes, M.D., F.R.C.S.I., when he inaugerated the 1936-37 clinical session at the hospital yesterday.

Speaking of the position of the hospital in regard to the Sweepstakes, he said that participation in the Sweepstakes funds had heavily depleted their annual subscriptions, and had virtually done away with legacies. The net result was that their annual loss on account of participation was £3,000, or, say, a capital sum of £100,000. The hospital was recommended a total sum of £227,000 from the Sweepstake funds, of which £140,000 was to be invested for endowment purposes. The actual amount which the Meath Hospital received was about £130,000, of which about £80,000 had been invested, and £50,000 spent to pay off the bank overdraft and to carry out much-needed improvements. The result was that, so far as the Meath Hospital was concerned, their financial position was very much the same as it had been before they participated in the Sweepstake funds. They were now running at an annual loss of about £5,000.

SLOW AND STEADY EXPANSION

In November, 1933, a circular letter had been sent to the participating hospitals warning them against extravagance, and further stating that no expenditure from the Sweepstake funds would be allowed unless it was sanctioned by the Commission. Accordingly, they had on all occasions when capital expenditure was undertaken asked the permission of the Commission before proceeding. When the overdraft amounted to £24,000 the hospital authorities asked the Commission to pay the sum.

"We were met with a blank refusal," continued Mr. Stokes. "We were told that we must pay out of the money which we had invested to counterbalance the loss on annual grants. The result of this policy, if persisted in, will be to force us to spend our capital, and to depend entirely upon annual doles."

However, with their present resources they could carry on with a steady, if slow, policy of improvement and expansion, in the well-founded faith that in time a more enlightened view would be taken of the situation.

AMALGAMATION

The reason for the attitude of the Commission was that they wanted the Meath Hospital amalgamated with Mercer's, the Royal City of Dublin and Dun's, to form one large hospital. They in the Meath did not want amalgamation. Three years ago the Medical Board were asked their views on amalgamation, and they had unanimously opposed the principle.

Despite the present position, they of the Meath Hospital, with a loyal and active staff and hard-working and able governing body, all working in the best interests of the sick poor, were confident that they would be able to carry on the work which they had done for the past 132 years. The Meath Hospital had a proud tradition. (Applause.)

Mrs. M. Cosgrave, who presided, presented the gold medal of the clincal session to Mr. Frank Shortt and the silver medal to Mr. Patrick Kennedy.

She said that the policy of the present Hospitals' Commission was to build up such a sum of money that it would place the revenue of the hospitals beyond all difficulties.

Sir John Moore, M.D., proposed, and Dr. L. Murphy seconded, a vote of thanks to Mr. Stokes.

MEDICAL TRAINING

Dr. Boxwell said that it would be a pity to move a hospital like the Meath away from the Medical School. At the moment 80 per cent. of their men went to positions in the Empire, and the men went there fully qualified after their period as house surgeons in the home hospitals. While the country remained in the Empire it was necessary that that system of training should continue. It did not matter what happened if they left the Empire.

A vote of thanks was accorded to Mrs. Cosgrave for presiding at the meeting.

ANTON BRUCKNER was born in Ansfelden, Upper Austria, on September 4th, 1824, and died in Vienna on October 11, 1896. Commencing his career as a school teacher, Bruckner later studied music and hovered some years between music and teaching. At the age of forty-four he moved to Vienna, where he continued his life as organist, lecturer in theory at the University, and composer. Eight symphonies and a ninth, which was never finished, belong to the Vienna period of his life, in addition to other important works.

The Seventh International Bruckner Festival is now being held in Vienna, and to-night Radio Athlone will relay the festival choral concert, which is taking place in the Konzerthaussaal. Combined choirs numbering 800 voices and solo voices, with organ, will be heard in a programme of some of the composer's most impressive work. Four conductors will be in charge of the performance.

A 'cello recital occurs in to-night's programme of the Station Orchestra, conducted by Lieutenant Doyle. Separating two orchestral items Mischel Cherniavsky, a distinguished Russian musician, will play a group of pieces for violoncello, commencing with the Concerto in A minor by Goltermann, which will be followed by Rimsky-Korsakov's Song of India, a Beethoven minuet, and a short piece by Boccherini. The concert commences at 7.15, Radio Athlone.

The old familiar "Stop!" and "Carry on London" will be quite a welcome sound to listeners who have looked forward to that popular Saturday feature, "In Town To-night," in the B.B.C. National programme during previous winter months. To-night this old favourite reappears in its 101st edition. Listeners will note that it is to be broadcast half an hour later—at 7.30, instead of 7, and also that the "Saturday Magazine" will be dropped, with the exception of one of its features—the serial—which will follow "In Town To-night" at 8 each Saturday. The first serial story, "The Palaver is Finished," is an adaptation from the Edgar Wallace stories by Anthony Hall, which commences to-night with "Sanders, C.M.G.," as episode 1.

This week's Music Hall brings many old favourites to the microphone. They include Bennett and McNaughton, Elsie and Doris Waters, and Billy Costello of film fame, who will broadcast as Popeye, the character in which he is known to thousands.

TO-MORROW

RADIO ATHLONE: "Maria Marten." Modern Version, 8.30.

NORTHERN IRELAND: Orchestral Concert. Haydn, 9.5.

B.B.C. NATIONAL: W. B. Yeats on Modern Poetry, 9.5.

REGIONAL: Victorian Melodies, No. 8, 9.5.

NORTH: The Newcastle Bach Choir, 9.5.

SCOTTISH: Light Orchestral, 5.45.

LEIPZIG: Bruckner's Fifth Symphony, 7.

KONIGSBERG: Bach Festival. Oratorio Programme, 8.

JOHN STEVENSON will present another of the famous old melodramas (such as were played in all seriousness some forty years ago) in modern version to-morrow night. Mr. Stevenson already has given us "The Demon Barber," and he now offers "Maria Marten," who, as all the older generation knows, was the victim in the famous Red Barn murder. These old blood-curlers make good entertainment, but one would think them more appropriate in a week-day programme, more especially as it is the only broadcast for Sunday listeners to Radio Athlone.

"There are few finer intellects or more romantic figures in the modern world than William Butler Yeats, who was born in Dublin on June 13, 1865." So runs a paragraph introducing W. B. Yeats, who to-morrow is to give the eighteenth national lecture in a series running in the B.B.C. programmes. Mr. Yeats will speak on modern poetry at 9.5 on the National wavelength.

The B.B.C. Northern Ireland Orchestra, conducted by E. Godfrey Brown, are giving a concert devoted to the music of Haydn. The soloists are Adelaide Beattie (soprano) and David Wolfsthal (violin). The items for performance include the Adagio and Finale of the Violin Concert No. 1 in C and the Overture to Haydn's opera, "The Uninhabited Island," written in honour of the name-day of his royal patron, Prince Esterhazy. Adelaide Beattie, with orchestra, will be heard in "With Verdure Clad," from "The Creation."

Choral singing is much in evidence for to-morrow. At 5 Western listeners will hear the Choir of the Bristol Choral Society in a programme of madrigals and part-songs, with pianoforte interludes by Muriel Kemp. At 9.5 (North Regional) a recital of Motets by the Newcastle Bach Choir, will be broadcast. Mid-way in this programme Leslie Russell and Elsie Winstanley (pianofortes) will play Handel's Concerto Grosso in B flat, arranged by Krug. It is rather distressing that most of the important Sunday broadcasts commence at 9.5, including Mr. W. B. Yeats's lecture, which runs for forty-five minutes.

A FLAG POLE

A FLAG POLE can be an artistic addition to a well designed home, but would you erect an aerial for decorative purposes? An aerial is no longer an essential to Radio entertainment. It but advertises the possession of a receiver with a limited entertainment value, confined to the room in which it is installed. Portable receiver entertainment travels where you will. You owe yourself a demonstration of a portable before committing yourself to a purchase. The portable is the ultimate in radio development. Why not have it NOW?

CURRAGH RACES

FIRST OCTOBER MEETING

Although the principal race of the first October meeting at the Curragh is to be run this afternoon, a large crowd attended yesterday, the opening day. The splendid card provided and the promising weather tempted any who may have felt at all doubtful in the morning.

Smartly tailored tweed suits in attractively blended colours were worn by most ladies present, and, together with costly furs, made a gay scene in the brilliant sunshine. A notable feature was the contrast in colours of suits with blouses and jumpers.

Among those present were:—The Duke of St. Albans, Lord and Lady Talbot de Malahide, Sir Walter and Lady Nugent, Miss Heather Nugent, Lord Hemphill, Lady Georgina Hay, Sir Cecil and Lady Stafford King-Harman, Mr. T. Stafford King-Harman, the Hon. Mrs. Gerald Wellesley, Mrs. Schlesinger, Mrs. More O'Ferrall, Mrs. Blackwell, Mrs. Hill-Whitson, Captain E. A. S. Cosby, M.F.H.; Major and Mrs. Shirley, Captain C. A. Boyd-Rochfort, V.C.; Captain and Mrs. Denis Daly, Franlein Feori, Mrs. Lennon, Mr. E. Lennon, Lady Robinson.

Sir Anthony Weldon, Mr. H. Stevenson (Vice-Chairman of the Turf Club in Natal), Mr. K. Urquhart, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Berrell, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Rogers, Colonel A. J. Blake, Mr. Isadore Blake, Mr. R. More O'Ferrall, Mr. F. More-O'Ferrall, Mr. E. R. More O'Ferrall, Miss Ethyl Jameson, Mrs. Kennedy, Miss P. Kennedy, Miss Erica Greer, Miss J. Gill, Mr. H. Gill, Lieut.-Col. S. S. Hill-Dillon, the Misses Hill-Dillon, Mr. and Mrs. Noble Johnson, Miss B. Noble Johnson, Mrs. Doyne, Miss Doyne, Captain and Mrs. G. F. Dunne.

Mr. B. Rogers, Mr. Ralph Barry, Mrs. Fetherstonhaugh, Colonel McCabe, Mr. H. Bacon, Mr. W. Barrett, Mr. Kenneth Urquhart, Captain F. ffrench Davis, Mrs. Dennehy, Mr. W. Dennehy, Dr. Bethel Solomons, Mrs. Page Croft, Mr. H. Ussher, Mr. J. Tennyson, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Duggan, Mr. W. Hilliard, Mr. W. J. Kelly, Miss Kelly, Mr. J. J. Parkinson, Mr. H. Delmege, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Robinson, Mr. H. Clark.

DENTAL STUDENTS' DANCE

The annual dance organised by the Dental Students' Society of Ireland will be held in the Gresham Hotel, Dublin, on Friday, 16th October, 1936. An energetic committee are working to make the dance a successful one. Numerous prizes will be presented during the evening.

MICHAELMAS LAW TERM

In connection with the opening of the Michaelmas Law Term there will be a special Service in St. Michan's Church (Church street) on Monday, at 10.15 a.m. Members of the legal profession are invited to attend this Service in the old parish church of the Four Courts.

STEDALT AUCTION

THE CLOSING DAY

Interest was maintained to the end in the furniture sale at Stedalt, Co. Meath, which had continued during the week by Messrs. Battersby and Co., of Westmoreland street, Dublin. There was a large attendance at the closing sale yesterday, which dealt with the furniture and equipment of the domestic offices, culinary utensils, coppers, batterie de cuisine, and all found buyers at satisfactory prices. The contents of the greenhouses, glasshouses, vineries and palmhouses were also disposed of, palms reaching up to £5 and £6 apiece. The farm machinery, carts, etc., also came under the hammer—farm carts £12 and £14 each, creel cart £6, garden roller £12 10s., pony mower £9; milch cows fetched £9 and £10, and calves up to 60s. and 70s. each. A Standard motor car (1931) £80, a garden hammock brought £9, tennis poles £3 15s. per set, and garden seats £4 each.

At the closing of the sale Mr. Raymond V. Judd said that he had been asked by a number of the local residents to convey an expression of regret at the severance of a connection with the Macartney Filgate family which had lasted for generations, and which had done so much in the interest of sport in the county. He desired to join in this expression

BOOKS OF THE WEEK

Two Plays in Verse

A Contrast of Styles

The Ascent of F6. By W. H. Auden and Christopher Isherwood. Faber and Faber. 6/-. Thomas Cranmer of Canterbury. By Charles Williams. Oxford University Press. 3/6.

ADMIRERS of "The Dog Beneath the Skin" should not be disappointed by "The Ascent of F6," a play, in verse and prose, by the same authors. The play, like its predecessor, is great fun—full of excitement and suspense. It is hard to conceive of its being the work of two minds: the fusion is complete, the oneness of texture admirable. Prose and verse melt into each other imperceptibly. The subject purports to be political, though it has a detached, dream-like quality which wears the actualities, the commonplaces of life, very ostensibly—but with a mocking air.

"The Ascent of F6" is easier for the reader to follow than "The Dog Beneath the Skin," and should, perhaps, act better. Indeed, its stage representation, in so original settings, should be an added delight. André Breton, surrealist, speaks of "... our heroic determination to let go our prey in favour of its shadow." In "The Ascent of F6" reality is perpetually being caught . . only to be dropped.

The Contemporary Note

There is a great deal of poetry, of course, and the speakers are witty all the time. The authentic contemporary note never fails.

Mr. A—Night after night we have listened to the ignoble news.
Mrs. A—We have heard
The glib justification of the sorry act.
Mr. A—The frantic washing of the grimy fact.
Mrs. A—But nothing to bring a smile to the face.
Mr. A—Nothing to make us proud of our race.

There is philosophy under all the fun. The Thibetan monk says to one of the would-be scalers of the demon-haunted peak: "Nothing is revealed but what we have hidden from ourselves; the treasure we have buried and accursed." Which is not only Freud. But there is much immediate matter:

The boarding-house food, the boarding-house faces,
The rain-spoilt picnics in the wind-swept places,
The camera lost and the suspicion,
The failure in the putting competition,
The silly performance on the pier—
And it's going to happen again next year!

Often the accents of Mr. Eliot are discernible. We are reminded how the knights spoke in the Epilogue to "Murder in the Cathedral," for instance. The play is built upon the scaffolding of Freud. One feels that Mr. Auden and Mr. Isherwood could some day write a great play—one to outlast the fashion of the moment—if they could bring themselves to work upon, say, a scaffolding of Thomas Aquinas.

"Thomas Cranmer of Canterbury," by Charles Williams, is also a verse play; but so different in form and content from "The Ascent of F6" that to read the two books consecutively gives a very strange sensation, as of being translated to another plane of being. Neither play can be called realistic, and if Mr. Williams's play is historical, so also may "The Ascent of F6" be regarded. For men have been explorers and scalers of untrodden mountain flanks presumably long before they knew how to argue about the relative merits of "communion" and "adoration"—words used apparently in a very technical sense by Mr. Williams.

The verse is very elegant, never losing its buoyancy—whether Cranmer brings the Bible to the King, with:

Many identities hath the Sacred Word, so widely is he bestirred for our beatitude: always in each good, somewhere he hath his height that the flight of man's heart must find. O, but speech never found reach of wing, or vision more than soars here!

or, when the priest hisses:

Lords, Master Cranmer hath the King's ear, urging heresies, hurrying destructions, preaching impossible simplicities of doctrine.

The Skeleton, Figura Rerum, stalks, or dances (as the mood takes it), through the play, welding the episodes together—bridging sudden lacunæ in space and time. When Cranmer is standing in the shadow of death the Skeleton ends a long speech with:

Ohé, the King is dead.
Now there is no sure face in the man's mind;
fingers are fumbling at his wrists, trying to bind;
feet tripping his feet, to throw him down;
the lords and commons come crying about the town.

That it is really all frank propaganda does not help the drama.

Sacraments of nature are better than those of grace, and a simple noble heart than copes and mitres. But do not trouble for that; go you and use your patterns of words, versicles, responses, formulæ, vain repetitions, muttering and mummeries. We will deal with you at need as you deal with words; the King permits you to write your soul in words.

Tragedy Without Humour

There is no attempt at psychology: the mob who favour "adoration" cry out the author's propaganda against themselves—shouting impossible blasphemies. As the persons of the drama are mere melodious debaters with, incidentally, all the skill on the side of the author's point of view—it doesn't seem to matter what happens. Whether the image they call "Cranmer" is burned or not, does not affect us. Mr. Williams shows a lack of humour, and without humour tragedy cannot show up clearly enough to touch us. He betrays no touch of humanity. Yet the reader must be churlish who proves ungrateful for the variety, suavity and elegance of the lines.

The Need for Belief

Mr. Eric Gill's Plea

The Necessity of Belief. By Eric Gill. London: Faber and Faber. 7/6 net.

THE most obvious thing to say about this book is that it is full of good things; but then everything Mr. Gill turns out is competent. Nevertheless, when a book bears such a compelling title, it is necessary to look into its purpose closely, in spite of the publisher's modest disclaimer of "theology or philosophy." The book must have a missionary aim, since one does not write such a book for believers.

The "non-believer" would be ordinarily inclined to expect a great deal of stress put on the word (in the title) "necessity." But in this Mr. Gill is disappointing. He spends a great many pages in defining what he means by "belief." His method, almost legal in its accumulative power, is based on the "unity of indirect reference," an idea dealt with in a regrettably unpublished book—"Certainty"—by Bickford. So that we arrive eventually at the conclusion that "belief" is "certainty," and, incidentally, "religious belief"—a statement which might have been arrived at more easily, even if it is not self-evident.

"Necessity"

But that important word "necessity" is hardly mentioned. Mr. Gill has a disconcerting way of lulling the critical faculty with a string of propositions which nobody would dream of disputing, with the object, one imagines, of slipping in a startling statement, which passes by almost unnoticed. I say almost; but if you examine a sentence such as the following: "Faith is a gift, and belief is the act of will by which we accept that gift"—it contains every dogma under the sun. Rightly so, no doubt; but it is hardly an argument. For, although Mr. Gill, like most artists, is a realist, he seems to think he has to contend with people who "believe" in nothing. Instead of which, his battle is with the most obstinate of believers; the believers in capitalism, the "good-timers," blue-domers, and 57 other varieties, each as fanatical as the other.

It is to these that Mr. Gill announces that faith is a gift—faith, which entails renunciation of what they treasure most, being the thing they dread most. The only book which would make an impression on the "unbelievers" is one which would teach them to fear the "material" consequences of the "good-time" they so firmly believe in.

The writing is vivid, and never slackens. It is intense to excess, and there are perhaps too many illustrations. In strange contrast to Mr. Gill's work as a craftsman, it is overloaded.

Dr Fisher Looks at Europe

History from the Liberal Viewpoint

A History of Europe. By the Right Hon. H. A. L. Fisher. London: Arnold. 10/6 net.

"I BEGIN this book," says Dr. Fisher, in his preface, "with neolithic man and conclude with Stalin and Mustapha Kemal, Mussolini and Hitler. Between these rough and rugged frontiers there are to be found some prospects flattering to human pride, which it is a pleasure to recall to memory, the life-giving inrush of the Aryan peoples, the flowering of Greek genius, the long Roman peace, the cleansing tide of Christian ethics, the slow conquest of classical learning after the barbaric invasions, the discovery through oceanic travel of the new world, the rationalism of the eighteenth, and the philanthropy and science of the nineteenth centuries. One intellectual excitement has, however, been denied me. Men, wiser and more learned than I, have discerned in history a plot, a rhythm, a predetermined pattern. These harmonies are concealed from me. I can see only one emergency following upon another as wave follows upon wave, only one great fact, with respect to which, since it is unique, there can be no generalisations, only one safe rule for the historian—that he should recognise in the development of human destinies the play of the contingent and the unforseen."

Successive Waves

In something over twelve hundred pages then Dr. Fisher surveys the history of Europe, following each successive wave as it rises afar off to its break in billowy spray against the cliffs of time. He follows these waves with the eyes and the mind of scholarly and gentlemanly English Liberal, a breed that shows signs of dying out, but which in its time has been one of the protagonists in European history. It may be, indeed, that in this great book will be found the ultimate expression of the Liberal-gentlemanly tradition in the writing of history. Dr. Fisher is in the line with Gibbon and Macaulay, attempting no daring hypotheses as are associated with the names of Spengler or Chamberlain. In his work there is no lurid drama, no thunderous eloquence, such as may be had from Carlyle. For all that it is a brilliant book solid without being ponderous, moving evenly and without haste, and written with the subdued roll of ancient eloquence. No better volume can be imagined as an introduction to European history, and it will probably hold that place for many a year to come.

It is the historical survey of Europe by an English Liberal politician, and the three facets of the man must be kept steadily in mind. He has little use for the freakish approaches to history which cranks, fanatics and pedants have attempted since the days of Voltaire. He has no liking for the racial interpretation of history, accepting without enthusiasm the conventional division of Europe among three races; but he hastens to add that most Europeans are now rather mixed. Hitler's Aryanism will receive little comfort from these pages, although there seems to be some inconsistency in such statements as that the Barbarians had a "refreshing and renovating power," and that they possessed "the secret of political liberty." How the latter assertion can be maintained in face of such giants of Teutonic liberty as Frederick II., Bismarck, and Adolf Hitler, is a little difficult to discover. The geographical factor has no greater place than the racial; and that of religion is given rather less than its due. Cultural history is in the background, and economic history, the latest mistress of the historians, receives merely nodding recognition; even the University of Oxford must admit the existence of Manchester.

Parliaments Not Infallible

Every historian must necessarily have his own viewpoint, his own ideal; that of Dr. Fisher is Liberalism, by which is intended the British blend of parliamentary government and the economy of Mill and Ricardo and Adam Smith. In these days when so many of "the lesser breeds without the law" have abandoned parliamentary systems, the virtues which the historian displays will not be so generally accepted as they might have been 25 years ago, and Dr. Fisher is far from believing in the infallibility of parliaments. "It legislated to prevent cheap corn and did not intervene to prevent cheap slums," he says of the House of Commons; and in that sentence summarises even current criticism of the parliamentary system.

As the present day is reached the allocation of space becomes greater, and so the balance of the book is just slightly distorted. Perhaps a little more space might have been allotted to the early histories of Greece and Rome, and the economic factor might have been more prominently displayed at various points; but as a political history of Europe from the British Liberal point of view, Dr. Fisher's is really delightful reading. He has woven a rich and fully-coloured tapestry in which the background is very familiar, and which is for that reason all the more acceptable. In the foreground pass in procession all the great figures and the influenitla groups of two thousand years in Europe, and appended to Europe are three other continents. There are purple patches, such as: "As for a moment we tread beside him (Justinian) through the corridors of the past, we seem to see the shades of night battling with the blood-red sunset of Imperial Rome." There are revealing epigrams, such as, "He had looked into the gutter for a wife, and picked out a diamond." There is much gentle irony, not that of a Swift or a Voltaire, but so subtle that it occasionally seems unintentional. Of the time of the Venerable Bede he says: "Thus early did the Anglo-Saxons evince their desire for the improvement of mankind through religion and knowledge." There is also to be found occasional scholarly facetiousness, such as "He saw in a marriage of a Swedish princess to a Duke of Holstein Gottorp a stab in the fatty part of the Danish anatomy."

Ireland

Ireland is treated as fully as can be expected in a volume that allots less than a page to every year of European history. From the arrival of St. Patrick to the effect of the Statute of Westminster the various phases of Irish history receive their meed of attention, and if the place accorded nor the point of view does not always satisfy the Irish reader, he will have the consolation of knowing that other nations will be equally dissatisfied. But this is undoubtedly a great work; a book that must be read and studied by all who desire to know their Europe; and, above all, by those who desire to know how a British Liberal scholar, who was also in his time a statesman, looks at his world.

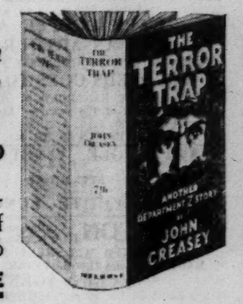
ANDREW MELROSE



New Novels

Laugh in the Sun. Amy J. Baker. John Long. 7/6 net.
Quetta Love Song. Valentine Clemow. Hurst and Blackett. 7/6 net.
Were I Thy Bride. Denise Robins. Ivor Nicholson and Watson. 7/6 net.
Within the Web. Julia Mowbray. Melrose. 7/6 net.

THE business girl who wants relaxation for her leisure hours is well catered for by the publishers this week. There is Miss Amy J. Baker's "Laugh in the Sun," which tells of the romantic adventures of a little manicurist. That Agnes has more luck and excitement than others only enhances the attractive qualities of such a book. Then Miss Valentine Clemow, too, has for heroine a girl who works in a beauty parlour. Quetta is, perhaps, a little bit more exciting than either London or Canada, as a background, and Miss Clemow uses the recent earthquake to round off her tale.

Denise Robins writes seriously of a young girl who falls in love with a married man. He is a "brilliantly successful novelist," and in consequence the affair is very much in the limelight. Miss Robins tries to be scrupulously fair, and puts the case of the girl's parents, the case of the wife, the case of the public, and, of course, the case of the girl and the man, all before us with an obvious anxiety to keep the interest evenly distributed.

"Within the Web" provides more exciting fare, and is an improbable thriller. Earls and gangsters and blackmailers and murderers jostle shoulders, and there is a woman in the case, "a child of the brotherhood of the Hawk," to provide feminine and sentimental interest.

Muskwa, the Trail Maker. By H. Mortimer Batten. London and Edinburgh: The Moray Press. 5/-.

The life of a black bear amid the forests and tundra of the great North-West of Canada is the theme of this latest animal biography of Mr. Mortimer Batten's. To the lives and ways of the creatures which inhabit these vast solitudes the author brings a unique knowledge of his own founded on a lifetime of experience. He brings before us as few nature writers the scenes and incidents which take place among the animal life of this little-known land, and writes finely and with descriptive beauty of the forests and lakes of the wild North lands.

Two-Gun Sheriff. Six-Gun Rancher. By J. Allen Dunn. Painted Post Law. By Tom Gunn. Gun-Play. By Chas. Neville Buck. London: Ivor Nicholson and Watson, Ltd. 3/6 each.

THE principal ingredients for real "hot" Wild West novels—action and plenty of fighting—are here in ample measure. All these books go "with a bang" from start to finish, are healthy, straightforward narratives, and deal with a side of life where manliness is never lacking. This is especially noticeable in two of the novels, "Six Gun Rancher" and "Gun-Play." The latter is an account of life in the wild Kentucky Mountain Country, where, even to-day, the blood feud exists. "Six-Gun Rancher" brings within its pages authentic portraits of two of the greatest plainsmen that ever "drew a bead"—Kit Carson and Jim Bridger. Both the remaining books are good representative specimens of their class, and the whole set makes a fine addition to this simple but attractive type of literature.

Night Without Darkness. By Pierre Audemars. Selwyn and Blount. 7/6 net.

IF the publishers had not pitched the note of their praise so high they would have done Mr. Audemars a better service. They promise the reader too much in "Night Without Darkness," and must take the responsibility for his feeling of disappointment. Mr. Audemars follows a well-beaten track. Jacques Giron is a young painter, concentrated on his art. Francine Goulard is the simple maiden of the fishing village of Aumer. To Jacques, as we should expect, Francine appeals as all beauty itself. In Paris, again as we should expect, married life is not quite successful. Jacques make a new and serious attachment, and Francine betakes herself home to Aumer again and for the arms of an old childhood friend, Paul d'Amiot, is prepared to throw love's defiance in the face of Church and people. Here Mr. Audemars does succeed in getting away from the stereotyped sort of thing, and deserves the publishers' eulogy. We cannot share the publishers' enthusiasm for the author's English, but we can gladly share in their feeling for his conveyance of a sense of tranquility and restraint. For this, and for its spirit of delicacy, and its gentle control of emotion, this is a first novel well worth reading.

And Then You Wish. By John Van Druten. Michael Joseph. 8/6 net.

THE author of "Young Woodley" may be trusted to tell a tale strong and terrible. His latest novel depicts theatre life, and author's struggle for recognition; but this material realism is merely the setting for scenes of extraordinary moral degradation. His picture of humanity is as ugly as Swift's if not so entertaining. Between the realism of the detail and the human unreality of the people's extreme nastiness, there is a strange gulf.

Rose Deeprose. By Sheila Kaye-Smith. Cassell. 7/6 net.

THE power of Miss Kaye-Smith's writing does not weaken, though her latest novel is grim as death and Scandinavian in hopelessness. She draws the rich scene of rural Sussex as winningly as ever, and that is the charm which enables us to go with pleasure through so dour a book. Family misery, marriage between persons too closely akin, the child's morbid attachment to one parent to the disadvantage of the other, drink, madness, suicide—these are the themes in which Miss Kaye-Smith works. But that it would be unfair to the reader, we are tempted to recapitulate the arresting tale that is unfolded; but it must suffice to say that, unlike the Scandinavians, Miss Kaye-Smith's gloom is cast about a tale worth the telling. Will she not use her rare gifts to tell us a story with joy in it and vision? She is a poet and has these gifts, but she withholds them from her later fiction.

Middle Class Murder. By Bruce Hamilton. Methuen. 7/6 nst.

Wife murder by poison is even more common in fiction than in real life. But in fiction, as in life, this crime is not often committed in the atmosphere of respectability and serenity in which Tim Kennedy, a dental practitioner, of some eminence, got rid of his wife. Kennedy had less excuse for his action than most wife murderers would put forward in their own defence. There were, indeed, the elements of his wife's bad health and the coming of another woman into his life. This would suggest that "Middle Class Murder" is written to a pattern. But that conclusion would be unjust to the novel and the author. Mr. Hamilton's writing is much better than is found in the average murder novel, and his handling of situation and character is more than ordinarily skilful.

The Cherry Bed. Karlton Kelm. Harrap. 8/6 net.

To judge by the publisher's blurb and the reception given it by the American press "The Cherry Bed." by Karlton Kelm, was a literary event in America. We doubt whether the cooler and calmer mind of the English or Irish reader will react similarly. Personally we found this portrait of a coarse, lower middle-class old woman and her quarrelling sons and daughters and grandchildren tedious and dull, and the method of presenting to us the small town scene pretentious.

Love and Let Me Go. Maysie Crieg. Hodder and Stoughton 2/6 nct.

Miss Maysie Crieg seems to give her readers every bit as good value in her new 2/6 as in her new 7/6 novels. "Love and Let Me Go" is quite long enough to show a guileless and innocent young working girl meeting and falling in love with a roving artist, and getting married to him. Rex is unstable and disappears, and Sally very nearly gets forced into bigamy. How and why Miss Crieg tells her readers in her own particular way.

Moki, Son of the Desert. By Cecil C Trew. London: Constable.

In the baking deserts of Arizona the Hopi Indians still live as of yore before the Spanish and, later, the Americans, possessed their lands. They still practise the rites of their fathers, and the snake dance is one of the weirdest religious ceremonies in the world; also they alone claim to know the real cure for snake bite. Moki is a half-breed Hopi. His father, a Spaniard, espoused the cause of the Indians against the Americans, and was slain. When Moki reaches a sufficient age his mother tells him of this, and he departs to avenge him. The story tells of Moki's quest and its strange outcome. Into the book comes much of the life as it is lived in the Painted Desert of Northern Arizona, and it is a colourful account of the Hopi Indians and their wonderful land.

Brighter Sums

Mathematics Made Merry

Mathematics for the Million. By Lancelot Hogben. Illustrated by J. F. Horrabin. London: Allen and Unwin. 12/6 net.

THE British Premier who learnt about decimals late in life and said that he always had wondered what those d——d dots meant would have welcomed this book. It was written when the author was in hospital, and "a few friends from among the million or so intelligent people who have been frightened by mathematics while at school" persuaded him, he says, to print it. The artist has added to its brightness, and it is only a pity that the Professor dragged his views on religion into the otherwise engaging pages.

The Revolutionary "O"

We begin with a rapid view of mathematics in history, from the pre-Christian age when men could not calculate without the help of the abacus, known to us now as a child's toy of beads on wire. The Hindus invented the sign of O, and this revolutionised all calculations. The Greeks worked out the proportions that we know as Euclid's, and gave Professor Hogben matter for his first advanced chapter. "What you can do with geometry" is his title, and we learn how to find the height of cliffs and of pyramids—knowledge that may come in handy to any man when strolling in the desert.

Painful Memories

Arithmetic is theme of a chapter over which we hurry, as it recalls too many painful recollections; but the chapter on trigonometry fascinates. It brings in Gibbon and Omar Khayyám and Theon and conic sections, which last look as if they were good to eat. Algebra began, as its name indicates, among the Arabs of Spain, who carried the art of calculation far and made modern physical science possible. Graphs are useful, it seems, not merely for high science, but for observation when the pot is cooling. "How Logarithims were Discovered" and "What the Calculus is About" are chapters that go beyond the common man's scope, though the Professor manages to joke through them.

The final chapter on arithmetic and human welfare is comforting. It shows how the high science of mathematics proves that the world always will have more than enough food for its inhabitants; Malthus is confuted with logic and a laugh. This book makes sums interesting.

Better Bed Manners

Better Bed Manners. By Dr. Ralph Hopton and Anne Balliol. London: Duckworth. 3/6 net.

SOME months ago these two authors produced a really funny book, under the title of "Bed Manners." Here they have made an attempt to repeat their success, and to gild the lily. In common with most endeavours of this nature they have failed to win as glorious a victory as they would like; but if "Better Bed Manners" is not funnier than "Bed Manners" it is at least consistently entertaining. Here are some of the heads under which instruction is given to the neophyte: "How to go to Bed . . . . How to get up . . . . How to be a Charming Invalid at Home . . . . How to Make a Hospital Proud of You . . . . . So You Don't Sleep Well . . . " and "Advice to Those about to Marry." The advice is given with a pleasant combination of archness, facetiousness, slickness, simplicity of phrase, and quite a goodly measure of gentle satire. Three and sixpence is a fair price to pay for so much solid counsel; and we ourselves will give the authors a friendly warning free of charge. We do not think a book called "The Best Bed Manners" would be a justifiable venture. A new subject, by all means, but not that one.

Lord Asquith

A Good Short Biography

Asquith. By R. B. McCallum. London: Duckworth. 2/-.

TO write a good short biography of a statesman of Asquith's eminence is as exacting a task as author ever undertook. Mr. McCallum gets as near to success as is humanly possible, and this contribution of his is well up to the standard of the publishers' excellent "Great Lives" series.

Mr. McCallum recognises that a study of Asquith "is not the study of any political movement or philosophy. It is the study of a man and his actions, a problem of character." That makes his task all the more difficult. In many ways Asquith appeared to be negative. But to generalise in that fashion would be to do the man injustice and to misrepresent an important period in British history.

Policy and Personality

What did Asquith contribute to that history? "If we are looking for some specific doctrine or policy," says Mr. McCallum, "we shall have little to answer to that question. Asquith's high talents stopped short of genius. Creative imagination in statesmanship was not included among the gifts with which nature so richly endowed him. To a degree surprising in one who was a master of so many of the arts of government, he was without initiative in ideas and in policy. There is no body of thought or trend of political development which can be called by his name. We may speak of an Asquithian phrase or an Asquithian attitude, but not of an Asquithian doctrine or idea. It was not his mission to find the raw materials of policy, but rather to shape and direct them, when the course of events brought them within his reach." That is a fair and sympathetic, yet critical, summing-up, and it is the spirit behind Mr. McCallum's study.

The War Years

Unlike many political biographers, Mr. McCallum preserves good proportions in his treatment of different stages of Asquith's career. The Premiership, naturally, was the most important, and here Mr. McCallum neglects none of the grave events of the years from 1908 to 1916—the constitutional crisis between Lords and Commons, the industrial unrest, the Home Rule Bill and the revolt against it, the outbreak of the world war, and the ousting of Asquith from the Premiership.

Within its compass, Mr. McCallum's section on Asquith and Ireland is as good and as interesting a summary of Anglo-Irish relations in a period of tension as any we have seen. It has one great merit of strictly judicial examination of all aspects of the problem.

Sculpture in America

A Sculptor's Odyssey. By Malvina Hoffman. London: Scribner. 24/- net.

THIS is a tale of adventure, a tale concerning the art of sculpture, remarkable in its origin and throughout in its detail. It comes from Chicago. Europeans, untravelled in the United States of America, if only acquainted with Chicago and its citizens through the reports most often in the newspapers, may suppose this the more striking fact. In Chicago, however, men of science and fine vision, devoted to anthropology and ethnography, conceived the idea of erecting a "Hall of Man" in the Field Museum, and there placed permanent records—absolute types—of all the principal species of the human race extant to-day. They have accomplished their object. Their chief instrument was a woman—Malvina Hoffman, a sculptor of genius, first recognised by the famous French artist, Rodin. She made a hundred life-sized statues for the "Hall of Man."

In this beautifully printed, generously illustrated volume Malvina Hoffman tells the story in vivid style. Beginning in Chicago it goes round the world; even into some of its darkest corners. It is, indeed, an odyssey, both in the fact and in that it concerns the creation of permanent memorials for ever. The high ability with which the sculptor executed her works of art a hundred illustrations declare, while in the frankness of her statement and the freedom of her style she has produced a fascinating book. It is a record of endurance and courage, and of intimate relation of strange incidents and episodes in which first-hand knowledge of men and mentalities has been sought in a single-minded purpose to attain to truth and reveal it in sculpture.

The authoress tells how she travelled through America, Europe, Asia and Africa; tells why and how she accomplished her five years' task, and leaves one with a desire to see Chicago for the sake of its "Hall of Man."

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND

The Standing Committee of the Fine Gael organisation yesterday decided to suspend the activities of the League of Youth Headquarters' Staff, and that, pending a meeting of the National Executive, the affairs of the League should be administered by Dr. O'Higgins, T.D. Mr. E. J. Cronin and his followers, in a statement issued last night, alleged that the Standing Committee's proposals were "designed to dissolve, disrupt and destroy the whole League of Youth organisation." —(Page 9.)

Members and officials of the Belfast Harbour Board who visited Dublin yesterday were received and welcomed by the Dublin Port and Docks Board and its officials. They inspected the port and the new works now in progress and were entertained to luncheon by the Dublin Board. In the afternoon the Lord Mayor received the visitors at the Mansion House.—(Page 5.)

ABROAD

Four British airmen, who had been making a flight from Australia to England and had been missing for three days, have been found on the coast of Timor and rescued by a British ship.—(Page 9.)

SPORTING

At the Curragh yesterday Mariegoulde won the Scurry Plate, Soldenno the Mountjoy Plate, Russborough the Probationers' Stakes, Prince Khan the Curragh Plate, Knight's Boy the Juvenile Plate, and Passage the Welter Plate.—(Page 12.)

FINANCIAL

London Stock Markets were cheerful, despite profit-taking by professionals. Mexican Eagles were again the feature. There were good features among Industrials.—(Page 14.)

The New Insularity

Writing in The Nineteenth Century and After, Mr. Hilaire Belloc waxes contemptuous of the state of public education. "The proportion of cultured men to the whole community has fallen rapidly during the last lifetime," he affirms. To those who challenge this surprising statement—surprising by reason of the boasted growth of popular instruction—Mr. Belloc proposes two tests. Knowledge of the main facts of history is one; familiarity with the map is the other. "There can be no doubt," he declares, "that the proportion of people who are of reasonably good instruction in either of these departments is much less than it was, and is growing less with every decade." How many people can point to Gdynia on the map, or tell why this great seaport, built in the last few years, is one of the critical points of Europe? Who knows where the little island of Pantellaria is, or can tell in what circumstances it might have become the central point in a war between Britain and another Great Power within the last twelve months? Who can answer cognate questions about the little island of Dumeira? These inquiries of the polemical Mr. Belloc may be commended to the schools if they baffle the clubrooms. Probably the charge is just. It is likely enough that few educated men could hold forth on the moment concerning the two islands which have become suddenly important as air bases on the Mediterranean and Red Sea sea routes; and not many are well-informed about the seaport that Poland has built as an alternative gate to Danzig. Knowledge of history and geography is at a low pitch, and this in a time when living history is more active than in any other period, and when the map of the world is a war-map on which the march of armies and ideas must be plotted daily. The degree of contemporary ignorance in these departments is realised only when we look back.

Without doubt, the generation before ours was better informed in historical and political geography. Every person of educated rank was able to name the capitals of Europe and the commercial centres, to sketch the boundaries of States and to give a fair account of affairs. He knew the dates of the revolutions in France and the erection of the German Empire. He could recite the names of the crowned heads and the houses to which they belonged; he would not be puzzled if asked how the Carlist movement rose and what were its principles. It must be remembered, however, that a generous information in modern history, resting on a classical base, was gained more easily in times when education was limited to that field. The modern man is not, as Mr. Belloc seems to suggest, quite empty-headed. The trouble is that he has learned so many things, has dipped into so many subjects, and by his calling is often required to study physical science and technical matters. The grand themes of history and geography have been neglected perforce. It is not that men know nothing, but that they know new things. Where we will agree with Mr. Belloc is in the affirmation—if he prefers to mend his case—that the neglect of history and geography has gone too far; that these matters are so close to the vital interests of men in peace and war, in culture and in arms, that they ought to be better understood at almost any cost. On the Continent they are neglected less; for nations which have seen the latest of age-long struggles over frontiers, and still fear revision by war, never can grow indifferent to the whereabouts of their enemies. The decay of historical and geographical knowledge is of greater consequence now that insularity has been ended by air-power.

The people of these islands cannot well afford to indulge the serene indifference in which hitherto the strategics of continental rivalry have been held. Mr. Belloc is right. Pantellaria matters. Gdynia matters. War ignited by explosion in either of these places would spread its cruel wrath into every home in Britain; and Ireland must be involved in a secondary manner, even if she proves to lie outside the range of the war-planes. No longer is Ireland "an island beyond an island." In these days we need knowledge of the big world and international affairs, but it must be feared that we are encouraging the very insularity which is our peril. The cultivation of our land's peculiar heritage, the intensive study of our island riches of the mind, as we have said often, is good; but we realise that it would do harm if it were prosecuted exclusively. Self-knowledge that amounts to ceaseless introspection is as morbid in a nation as in a man. Instead of deepening its subject, it only narrows it. Probably Mr. Belloc's charge of a growing ignorance of world affairs applies more strongly to our island than to Great Britain, and the worst calamity is that some people pride themselves on a foolish aloofness, as if it were wisdom. When we find strange ideas dismissed contemptuously as "continental"—as if it were shameful to be a partner with the lands that cradled our civilisation—then we are in the presence of that kind of ignorance which is culpable, ignorance that is proud of itself. The continental languages now hold a smaller place in our schools than ever before. Is this an aid to national progress? Are people prouder of their own heritage when they are unable to compare it intelligently with any other? Past Irish generations would have no doubt of the answer. When they were as intensely national as patriots would make us once again, those generations gloried in their place in the world's affairs, singing of battlefields on which their blood was sprinkled, "from Dunkirk to Belgrade."

"Neither Moscow nor Hitler!"

"Neither Moscow nor Hitler!" is a cry which is being raised in Alsace at the moment. The French Communists had announced their intention to hold no less than 127 public meetings during the week-end in Alsace, and the plan was so provocative that it might have had very serious results. Already Germany, faced with the prospect of this mass demonstration just across the frontier, has been discovering in it yet another proof that she is being surrounded on all sides by Red enemies. She finds, or professes to find, that the influence of Moscow is pressing in upon her from the west as well as from the east, and the counter-demonstration which she had planned to the Communist meetings was meant to underline the fact that she remains as firmly Nazi as ever she was. M. Blum, slightly panic-stricken, has done his best to disassociate France from any suspicion of "redness." By the exercise of a great deal of tact he has been able to persuade the Communists that they should reduce the total of their meetings—first to fifty-six, and now to ten. The latter number is thought to be small enough to be safe from the diplomatic point of view, so that the week-end may pass off peacefully after all. Although the "crisis" is small enough to be almost ridiculous, it is a good example of the nervous tension which prevails in Europe at the present time. The issue of Communism versus Fascism did not arise until quite lately, but the conflict in Spain seems to have brought it to a head, and European countries are beginning to show a most disturbing inclination to range themselves on one side or the other. In France both doctrines have been asserting themselves with some force, and the distracted Prime Minister is doing his best to prevent them from joining issue. On the Fascist side the energetic Colonel de la Rocque has begun to give trouble again. After the dissolution of the Croix de Feu he formed a "French Social Party," but there is reason to think that nothing very much was changed except the title, and during the last few days the police have become suspicious enough to make a raid on his party offices. The Communists have been even more troublesome, as is shown by the long series of industrial strikes and the gratuitous attempts to annoy Germany which they have made this week. Meanwhile the ordinary men and women of Alsace want "neither Moscow nor Hitler," and their wish will be echoed in every country where the twin follies have not been given a foothold. The citizen of a democratic nation is not concerned with fighting for Fascism against Communism, or vice versa. Their theories may be widely different, but, so far as he is concerned, they lead to very much the same thing in the end—the despotic rule of the State, the suppression of personal liberty and private opinion, an era of tyranny and propaganda. Both forms of madness are spreading, and the nations that are still untouched by them should strive to remain so.

Physical Training

A few days ago we commented upon the British Government's new concern with the people's physique. It is being impressed gradually upon Great Britain that her people, thanks to the lack of physical training, is inclining to the "C3," rather than the "A1," end of the scale, and the knowledge is creating alarm. Nations which compel their young men to undergo a period of military training have little reason to worry, but an effort to impose conscription on Great Britain would be doomed to failure. If she is to improve her people's physique, it must be by the encouragement of sport and healthy amusements generally, and for some time past Cabinet Ministers have been urging the need of more and better playing fields. The impulse, according to our Northern Correspondent, is being extended to Northern Ireland, where a sum of £2,000 already has been subscribed towards the cost of new sports grounds. This sum, however, is lamentably inadequate, and the Lord Mayor of Belfast hopes for a more generous subscription. We trust that his appeal will meet with a ready response. We hope, too, that the Free State will be equally quick to recognise the need of playing fields. Dublin is provided more amply with them than Belfast—largely through her possession of the Phœnix Park—but throughout the provinces there is a sad lack of facilities for healthy sport. It is bad enough that there should be nothing on the lines of a National Stadium for fixtures of nation-wide importance, but it is infinitely worse that the youth of many country towns, surrounded by fields, still should lack an opportunity to play games under proper conditions. The revival of athletic pursuits in Ireland is one of the best features of recent years. How much more thorough would it have been if real facilities had existed. This country has turned out some of the finest athletes in the world; yet the young people of to-day—many of whom probably could emulate, if not surpass, their famous predecessors—are forbidden that practice which, we are told, makes perfect. It would cost so little in this undeveloped land of ours to provide playing-fields and swimming-pools. Must we permit the people to degenerate for the sake of some thousands of pounds?

Quota Films

The Cinematograph Films Advisory Committee has suggested to the Board of Trade in London that there should be "a modification of conditions of eligibility for the registration of films as British, to secure that films so registered shall be of a reasonable standard of entertainment." In effect, the Committee is protesting against the extremely poor quality of many British quota pictures. It explains that renters representing foreign interests make a practice of acquiring their quota films as cheaply as possible. They are concerned only to comply with the Cinematograph Films Act, and are quite indifferent to the quality of the pictures that they obtain. Since they control a large proportion of the foreign films available, they may be sure of their profits from this source alone. As a consequence, those exhibitors who cannot obtain the films made by the principal British producers, and rely, perforce, on foreign renters, continually find themselves compelled to show quota pictures of the poorest type, as the renters are unable to supply them with any other. Thus it happens that a British quota picture, in an unfortunately large number of cases, will be far inferior to the foreign film with which it is shown, and with which it naturally is in competition. To remedy this evil the Advisory Committee suggests that the section of the Cinematograph Act shall be repealed which requires the author of the scenario to be a British subject; but we fear that such tacit admission of the incompetence of British scenario writers will find little favour with the Board of Trade. Would it not be better to let nature take its course? Many of the American films are just as bad as the British quota picture; but the American renters have a large supply of better-class films from which they may take their choice. At its present rate of progress, the British film industry soon must reach a much higher average standard than it has attained so far.

POWERS AND THE SOVIET

DISCORD AT NON-INTERVENTION MEETING

PORTUGUESE DELEGATE WALKS OUT

COUNTER-CHARGES BROUGHT AGAINST RUSSIA

SERIOUS differences between the great European Powers arose at yesterday's critical meeting of the International Non-Intervention Committee, at the Foreign Office in London.

Signor Grandi, the Italian representative, after repudiating every allegation against Italy as "entirely fantastic," alleged a number of infractions of the pact by the Soviet Government, and strongly protested against its methods.

The Portuguese representative walked out after expressing his inability, without instructions from his Government, to discuss Soviet allegations that Portugal had violated the agreement, but later stated that his action did not imply an intention to withdraw from the work of the Committee.

The Committee, which sat for six and three-quarter hours, devoted the last two hours to drafting an official communiqué, which made it clear that there was considerable wrangling and severe tension at the meeting. The communiqué was not issued until an hour and a half after the meeting had ended.

It stated that the documents setting out the allegations of the Spanish Government would be communicated to Germany, Italy and Portugal (the accused Governments), with a request for written explanations.

MEETING LASTS SEVEN HOURS

Yesterday's critical meeting of the International Committee on Non-Intervention in Spain lasted six-and-three-quarter hours, with two intervals.

The session did not end until nine o'clock last night. The delegates sat from 11.30 in the morning until 1.15, and from four till nine. During the evening the formal sitting was suspended for thirty-five minutes, but the members did not leave the room in which it was held.

Twenty-seven nations were represented at the meeting, which was held in the Locarno room at the Foreign Office. The Earl of Plymouth, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, was chairman.

The threat of the Soviet Government to withdraw from the Non-Intervention Pact if immediate steps were not taken to prevent alleged violations of the agreement by Germany, Italy and Portugal was before the meeting. The Soviet case was put by M. Kagan.

M. Corbin, French Ambassador, whose Government proposed the Non-Intervention Pact, also addressed the Committee.

The German representative was Prince von Bismarck, Chargé d'Affaires.

The following communiqué was issued after the meeting:—

"The fifth meeting of the International Committee for the application of the agreement regarding non-intervention in Spain was held in the Foreign Office to-day. Representatives were present of all the countries that are members of the Committee.

BRITISH VIEW

"The Chairman (Lord Plymouth) explained that he had summoned the Committee to consider certain documents alleging that breaches of the agreement had occurred which the United Kingdom had received from the Spanish Government.

"The United Kingdom Government considered that certain of the incidents alleged would, if substantiated, constitute breaches of the agreement, and on 6th October they had accordingly communicated the documents to the Committee for their consideration.

"As regards the documents themselves the United Kingdom representative accepted responsibility for their presentation to the Committee.

"The Committee took note that, in accordance with the rules of procedure, the Chairman would communicate these documents to the Governments of Germany, Italy and Portugal, with a request for such explanations in writing as would enable the Committee to establish the facts.

ITALY'S COUNTER-CHARGE

"The Italian representative, after having energetically refuted and repudiated every single point of the allegations directed against Italy, declared that all these allegations were entirely fantastic and devoid of any foundation whatsoever.

"This would be easily proved by the answer which would be given in due time by the Italian Government.

"The German and Portuguese representatives made similar reservations in regard to the position of their respective Governments.

"The Committee also had before it a letter dated 6th October, alleging violation of the agreement by the Portuguese Government, presented by the representative of the U.S.S.R., and putting forward a proposal that a committee of investigation should be sent to the Spanish-Portuguese frontier to investigate the position.

PORTUGUESE ATTITUDE

"The Portuguese representative expressed his inability to take part in a discussion of this matter without instructions from his Government, to whom he had communicated the document in question.

"At this point the Portuguese representative left the meeting.

"On the resumption of the Committee at 4 p.m., the Chairman stated that he had been informed by the Portuguese representative that his action in leaving the meeting should not be taken to imply an intention on the part of his Government to withdraw from the work of the Committee.

"In accordance with the rules of procedure, the Chairman will at once forward the complaint to the Portuguese representative, and the Committee decided that, pending the receipt of a reply, it would be premature to discuss the proposal for the appointment of a committee of investigation.

SOVIET CHARGES

"There was general agreement that it was imperative in the general interest that the complaints which had been received should be subjected to the most searching examination, and that this examination should be carried through with the greatest possible speed.

"The Committee also had before it a letter dated 7th October from the representative of the U.S.S.R., stating that his Government feared lest the situation created by repeated violations of the agreement might render the agreement virtually non-existent, and that they could in no case agree to turn the agreement into a screen shielding the military aid given to the rebels by some of the participants.'"

"They were compelled, therefore, to declare that, if violations of the agreement were not immediately stopped, the Soviet Government would consider itself free from the obligations arising out of the agreement.

"The representative of Italy, after citing a number of alleged infractions of the agreement by the Government of the U.S.S.R., expressed the view that, if the object of that Government were to free themselves from their obligations under the agreement, it would be preferable that they should not, by unfounded charges, attempt to throw the responsibility for such a decision on others.

A STRONG PROTEST

"He strongly protested against the methods of the Soviet Government, and informed the Committee that his Government declined to accept any responsibility for any results which might follow in the event of the agreement being annulled by the unilateral decision of one of the adhering States, which would alone have to bear full responsibility for the consequences of its action.

"The German representative took the view that the communication made by the U.S.S.R. representative was outside the competence of the Committee, as it did not follow the rules of procedure laid down, and was to be regarded as a purely political move.

"In the course of his reply, the representative of the U.S.S.R. repudiated the allegations that had been brought forward by the Italian representative, and insisted on the need for the adoption of measures to stop the violation of the agreement which had taken place, and which were mentioned in his letter of the 7th October.

"In view of the fact that no concrete proposals were before the Committee on this occasion, no action could be taken on the statement made by the representative of the U.S.S.R.

"Certain representatives, however, indicated that they wished to obtain further instructions from their Governments.

"In accordance with a recommendation made by the Chairman's Sub-Committee, the representatives agreed to ask their respective Governments to furnish the Committee with certain additional information relating to the treatment applied to arms and war material destined for Spain that formed part of a cargo of a vessel calling at a port of a country that is a party to the agreement."

RUSSIAN THREAT "A BLUFF"

PORTUGAL'S FIRM STAND

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

LISBON, Friday.

The Soviet threat to withdraw from non-intervention in Spain is regarded here as mere bluff, a last-minute effort to save the Madrid Government, which Moscow is stated now to realise is lost.

With reference to the suggestion that a committee be set up on the Spanish-Portuguese border, the Diario de Noticias quotes "well-informed official circles" as declaring that "Portugal would in no case allow any form of foreign control or supervision."

"Portugal has not given any support to the insurgents," adds the newspaper.

MR. BALDWIN'S RETURN

CABINET TO MEET ON WEDNESDAY NEXT

Mr. Baldwin is to return to No. 10 Downing street, his official residence, on Monday next to resume active control after his period of rest. He will begin at once with the preparations for the new session of Parliament, which reassembles on October 29th. The Cabinet is expected to be summoned to meet on Wednesday next for the resumption of its ordinary sittings.

ONE HUNDRED DROWNED IN BRAZILIAN FLOODS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PORTO ALEGRE (BRAZIL), Friday.

Over a hundred persons have been drowned by disastrous floods in the Province of Porto Alegre, and losses of cattle and property are estimated at half a million pounds. The lower part of the town of Porto Alegre has been inundated by the waters of the Guaiba River. The post office and public buildings are standing like islands in a miniature sea.

DERRY INQUIRY ENDED

THE CONCLUDING SPEECHES

TWO VIEWS OF THE SCHEME

INSPECTOR TO REPORT TO MINISTRY

"THEY are asking you to suggest a scheme which, as far as the Catholics of Derry are concerned, will go very far towards repealing the Catholic Emancipation Act."

This statement was made by Mr. McSparran, who, with Mr. McGonigal, K.C., appeared on behalf of the Nationalists, in the course of his final address at the sworn inquiry, which concluded in Derry yesterday.

The inquiry was held by Rear-Admiral Archdale, C.B.E., the Ministry's inspector, into the Unionist scheme for a redistribution of the city wards and a reduction of the number of members of the Corporation.

The evidence of the various witnesses had occupied two days, and yesterday counsel made their concluding speeches.

THE FIVE-WARD PLAN

Mr. McSparran said the scheme was not for an "equitable redistribution of the wards," but for a redistribution of the wards in such a way as would ensure for the next generation that the Catholics and Nationalists would have no effective voice in civic affairs, where questions of religion or politics entered into those affairs. The existing five-ward arrangement in Derry, to which the Unionists now took exception, was the very scheme put forward in 1896 by the Unionists, and was confirmed in 1923, again with their approval. "Economy, efficiency and the size of the town" were their reasons then, and it was supreme audacity for them to put forward identical reasons now for a reversion to the previous arrangement—a three-ward system with less corporators. To suggest that the person with a higher valuation should have more voting strength was the absolute negation of democracy.

"They are asking you," said counsel, "to suggest a scheme which, as far as the Catholics of Derry are concerned, will go very far towards repealing the Catholic Emancipation Act. It is designed to take away from them the ordinary elementary rights of citizenship. If such a scheme were suggested, say, in Glasgow, what would happen with the labour classes? There is no city in Great Britain where—if a similar scheme were put forward by any party to disfranchise the poorer classes and give a preponderating weight to the wealthy classes—you would not have revolution and riots inside a week. But it is calmly put forward in the city of Derry."

"ACME OF ABSURDITY"

Counsel commented on the absence of the very gentlemen who publicly proposed and sponsored the scheme, and asked was there the slightest doubt why they were not giving evidence. If they were there they would have to respect the oath and give the real reason for their proposals.

Mr. McSparran said he was told that steps were being taken to compile a record of the various gerrymandering schemes in the North. It would be interesting reading when published and made available for the information of Great Britain and the British Empire. Of all the many gerrymandering schemes in the Six Counties this scheme was the acme of absurdity. It was unique. He held that it violated the Government of Ireland Act by clearly giving preference, privilege or advantage, and imposing a disability or disadvantage on account of religious belief.

If that scheme went through there was not a town with 20 per cent. Unionists in the Six Counties where they could not put forward as plausible a scheme. Were, he asked, the Catholics of the Six Counties, many of whom wanted to live peaceably in the midst of the Government that was there, to be driven into a sort of reservation like the Red Indians in America or the negroes in the South American States.

SUBVERSIVE ELEMENTS

Mr. C. A. Nicholson, who (instructed by Mr. H. C. O'Doherty) appeared for Mr. A. J. Halliday, B.A., Principal of Skerry's College, Derry, and a well-known local Unionist, asked where was the authority for the Unionist basing their argument on valuation. Were they to destroy established principles for the sake of a few economies which no attempt had been made to prove in detail.

Is it reasonable to fear an outbreak, counsel asked. There are subversive elements on both sides. It may work a havoc which you do not see, but which you should have foreseen when they planted that injustice. The Ministry, in deciding the matter, have a very great responsibility. We would be long sorry to see the Crown sign a document which perpetrated an atrocious injustice.

A POLITICAL CRY

Mr. W. F. McCoy, who, with Mr. J. C. MacDermot, K.C., represented a number of Unionist ratepayers supporting the scheme, said if the line dividing the proposed new wards was so eccentric, why did not the other side put forward an alternative scheme. He suggested that the reason was because the opposition was not genuine and that there was no real foundation for it except the political and religious cry. He and Mr. MacDermot did not represent any shade of politics. They were there representing the trading community—business men with large stakes in the city, with large valuations, to whom the welfare of the city was everything.

Mr. Lowry, K.C., who, with Mr. Gerald Dougherty (instructed by Mr. Humphrey Babington), appeared for the Corporation, referring to Mr. McSparran's statement that those corporators who had proposed and sponsored the scheme did not give evidence, said that one of the gentlemen referred to was very ill. As to any member of the Corporation, he, in his discretion as counsel, had called such witnesses as could be of assistance. He did not think the talk of peace being disturbed if the scheme went through could be taken too seriously.

FAIR TRIAL ASKED

The scheme would give fair representation to the highly valued ratepayers of the city and would do no injustice to the little valued ones because it would give them several members to voice all their legitimate needs. If the obsession of politics and religion could be got rid of in Derry and the scheme given a fair trial all would look back on it through time as one of the most useful things ever done in the city.

The Inspector, to whom thanks were expressed by all sides for his patient hearing, said his report on the inquiry would be furnished to the Ministry, who would make their decision in due course.

A small monkey was carried as mascot by the insurgents' Moorish shock troops when they swept into the Spanish Government's stronghold of Novalperal on Thursday in their advance towards Madrid, says Reuter.

FOUR MISSING AIRMEN

FOUND ON TIMOR SEA REEF

RESCUED BY BRITISH SHIP

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

DARWIN, Friday.

AFTER being missing for three days, the four British airmen aboard the Croydon Monospar—the fastest British-built air liner—have been rescued.

They were found on the coast of Timor, and are now on board the 4,736-ton British steamer Nimoda, of London, which is on her way home to England via Durban.

Their machine—in which they were attempting a record flight to England—came down on a sandbank, and lies abandoned on the Seringapatam Reef, about 450 miles west of Darwin, in the Timor Sea.

ANXIETY ENDED

News of the rescue of the airmen—Mr. H. Wood (pilot), Mr. C. Gilroy (wireless operator), Mr. I. Davies (ground engineer) and Mr. F. C. Crocombe (designer)—was received here in a dramatic wireless message from the master of the Nimoda. In it he stated that he had taken them on board from a native fishing craft. News of their rescue ended a long period of great anxiety for the wives of the four men.

For Mrs. Crocombe it was the second time in six weeks that she had undergone the nerve-wrecking ordeal of knowing that her husband was "missing" on a flight. On August 29th the Imperial Airways machine Horsa, flying down the Persian Gulf to India, overshot her landing ground at Bahrein, and landed 40 miles south-west of Salwa Wells, in the desert, by the shore of the Arabian Gulf.

LITTLE FOOD OR WATER

Mr. Crocombe was among the nine passengers who were stranded for thirty hours, with very little food or water, in the intense desert heat. At the time he was travelling to Karachi, where the Croydon Monospar was then waiting to complete her outward flight from England to Australia.

It was on Tuesday morning that the Croydon Monospar took off from Melbourne. After reaching Darwin in thirteen hours nothing was heard of the machine except for one wireless message which gave their position as 68 miles from Koepang, in Java. The airmen were then asking for a wireless direction bearing.

NEWS IN BELFAST

MESSAGE TO OPERATIVE'S WIFE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Friday.

Mrs. Gilroy, who resides at Holywood, wife of Mr. Charles Gilroy, the Belfast man who was wireless operator on the missing aeroplane Croydon Monospar, received a telephone message to-day from the General Aircraft Company, which had been sent to Heston Aerodrome, Essex, stating that the crew had been picked up, and were being taken to hospital at Durban.

Mrs. Gilroy has also received the following telegram from Lord Sempill:—"It is quite impossible to express my feelings in words at the wonderful news just received. Very warmest congratulations to you all."

Lord Sempill started out on the flight, but had to return to England when the 'plane was held up at Karachi.

A GREAT RELIEF

Mrs. Gilroy was overjoyed at the good news. She and her mother-in-law sat up the whole night. "I cannot tell you how glad we are," she declared. "The information came from the General Aircraft Company, and the person who was speaking said: 'Mrs. Gilroy, I have good news for you.' I hardly knew where I was," she said. "He then told me that the crew had been picked up in an exhausted condition by a steamer, and were being taken to Durban, and that the machine had been abandoned. He also said that the boat would not arrive there until November 2, and that I might not see my husband for six weeks.

"I do not mind waiting now, when I know he is safe. What a relief it is," she added.

THE RESCUING VESSEL

The Nimoda, which picked up the four airmen, was built by Messrs. Harland and Wolff at their Greenock yard in 1927, and was engined at Belfast. She is a cargo vessel of 4,736 tons, owned by the Hain Line, which is one of the P. and O. group. According to the latest shipping intelligence, she left Cairns, Queensland, for London on the 30th ult., calling at Thursday Island on the 4th inst.

The owners of the ship state that she is expected at Durban about November 2. She is on a voyage from Queensland to London.

THE SINO-JAPANESE NEGOTIATIONS

TOKYO'S CLAIMS IN NORTH CHINA

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

TOKYO, Friday.

"General Chiang Kai-shek manifested an earnest hope for the readjustment of Sino-Japanese relations in his talk with Mr. Kawagoe (the Japanese Ambassador in Nanking)," said the Japanese Foreign Office spokesman this morning.

"We shall, therefore, continue the negotiations with China with that hope in view. It would be premature to say whether yesterday's talk warrants optimism or not."

The Yomiuri Shimbun gives a version of the six proposals said to have been conveyed by Mr. Kawagoe to General Chiang. Conspicuous among them is a demand for "more liberal self-governing rights in the five northern provinces, in view of the special nature of North China." The other Japanese proposals given by the Yomiuri are:—

1. Joint Sino-Japanese defence against a "Red invasion" by a third country.
2. "Sincere control" of anti-Japanese agitation in China.
3. Reduction of Chinese tariffs.
4. Employment of Japanese advisers in all departments at Nanking.
5. Improvement of communications with Japan, including an air line between Shanghai and Fukuoka.

The importance of General Chiang Kai-shek's statement is that it shows that he stands by China's six counter-demands on Japan, the chief of which is that Japanese military officers must cease interfering inside China.

Notice has been served by the Cologne Quarters Office on all householders that they must notify the authorities by to-morrow what accommodation they have for troops, transport, etc., says Reuter.

THE BLUESHIRT SPLIT

ACTION OF UNITED IRELAND

LEAGUE OF YOUTH STAFF SUSPENDED

CASE OF MR. CRONIN'S SUPPORTERS

THE Standing Committee of the Fine Gael organisation, at a meeting held yesterday in Dublin, decided to suspend the activities of the Headquarters Staff of the League of Youth, and that, pending a meeting of the National Executive, the affairs of the League should be administered by Dr. O'Higgins, T.D. At the meeting of the National Executive a new scheme "to secure efficiency and harmony," which was adopted at yesterday's meeting, will be further considered.

In a statement issued by Mr. E. J. Cronin and six other members of the National Council of the League of Youth it is alleged that these proposals are "designed to dissolve, disrupt, and destroy the whole League of Youth organisation."

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

The following statement was issued last night from the offices of the Fine Gael Party, 3 Merrion square, Dublin:—

"A meeting of the Standing Committee of Fine Gael was held at 3 Merrion square this morning, Mr. W. T. Cosgrave, T.D., presiding. The attendance included Dr. T. O'Higgins, Professor J. M. O'Sullivan, T.D.; General Mulcahy, T.D.; Commandant Cronin, J. Costello, T.D.; T. Donovan, T.D.; Colonel Jerry Ryan, E. Blythe, E. R. Orpen, Richard Blake, Co.C.; Gerard Sweetman, P. Quinlan, and Captain D. Quish.

"The Committee had under consideration a report from Dr. O'Higgins on the changes in internal organisation of the League of Youth necessary to secure efficiency and harmony. The report suggested that the League of Youth should continue to work as heretofore in branch areas and in the constituencies under its own officers, but that the duplication of headquarters should be terminated, and that in future general control of the League of Youth should be exercised by the Standing Committee of Fine Gael through a League of Youth officer appointed by them.

"The Standing Committee, on the motion of General Mulcahy, seconded by Colonel Ryan, adopted the principle of the scheme recommended by Dr. O'Higgins, three members dissenting.

"Commandant Cronin, Captain Quish and Mr. Quinlan then left the room.

"The Standing Committee then resolved that the activities of the Headquarters Staff of the League of Youth should be suspended, and that Dr. O'Higgins should administer the League on behalf of the Standing Committee.

"The new scheme of organisation will be further considered by the Standing Committee and submitted at an early date to the National Executive for ratification."

NATIONAL COUNCIL'S CASE

Last night Mr. E. J. Cronin (Deputy Director-General of the League of Youth) sent the following statement for publication:—

"At a meeting of the Standing Committee of Fine Gael to-day (Friday) certain proposals by Dr. O'Higgins with reference to the control of the League of Youth were before the meeting, and were passed by a majority vote. Fourteen people were present, including the President and two Vice-Presidents. The proposals were (as foreshadowed in Commandant Cronin's statement last night) designed to dissolve, disrupt and destroy the whole League of Youth Organisation, by depriving it of the cohesive and disciplinary influences of the central control exercised by its National Council and Central Staff, thereby creating a situation in which the League of Youth, deprived of leadership and governing body, would automatically cease to be a disciplined organisation and would further cease to be an effective weapon for achieving for the Irish people the ends and objects for which it was established.

"On those grounds the proposals were strenuously opposed by League of Youth officers present (acting in accordance with the policy of the National Council).

"Pending further developments, we wish to state that the National Council of the League of Youth are determined to preserve the Blueshirt organisation, to defend it against all challengers, and to ensure that it will be maintained as an effective weapon to preserve the people's rights, and truly reflect their national aspirations.

"In view of the multiple efforts made to camouflage the real significance of Dr. O'Higgins's proposals, we deem it necessary to reassure members of the Blueshirt organisation that while our efforts are directed as far as possible to maintaining harmonious relations with Fine Gael, to the extent of allowing Commandant Cronin to step down to the position of Deputy Director-General, we are not prepared to further sacrifice the League of Youth in the effort towards that end in the complete absence of reciprocation. Now that a general election is pending, and that all the resources of the Fine Gael organisation should be concentrated on winning the fight, we regard it as altogether indefensible that efforts should be made to smash the real live-working part of the Fine Gael organisation.

"In conclusion, we again wish to emphasise our determination to resist any and every attempt to absorb or strangle the Blueshirt movement, and if the decision arrived at by the Standing Committee of Fine Gael to-day is pursued, we will regard ourselves as free from any obligation under the terms of the merger, and we will revert to our original position as an absolutely independent organisation

"Signed on behalf of the National Council.

"EDMOND J. CRONIN,
"AUSTIN BRENNAN,
"PATRICK QUINN,
"JOSEPH P. AHERNE,
"DENIS P. QUISH,
"PATRICK QUINLAN,
"WILLIAM J. CAFFREY."

Mr. Cronin has forwarded also a series of resolutions passed at the meeting of the National Council of the League on Thursday night. One of these, which was ordered to be placed before the Standing Committee of Fine Gael yesterday, congratulated Mr. Cronin on his "magnanimous action" in reverting to the position of Deputy Director-General, and expressed confidence in him. Another endorsed the selection of Captain John L. O'Sullivan as candidate for the vacancy in West Cork, and a third pledged the meeting to maintain the integrity of the Blue Shirt organisation, and empowered a committee consisting of Mr. Cronin Captain Quish (Limerick), Captain Quinn (Kilkenny), Colonel Brennan (Clare), Lieutenant Quinlan (N.E. Cork), and Commandant Aherne (Cork) to take any action necessary for its preservation.

Sergeant-Pilot A. H. Simpson, of the R.A.F. Reserve, was killed yesterday when the machine he was flying alone crashed at Brough, Yorks. The cause of the accident is not yet known.

MADRID IMPOSES CURFEW

LAST RAILWAY LINK CUT BY AERIAL BOMBARDMENT

EARLY SURRENDER EXPECTED

FIERCE FIGHTING IN BURNING OVIEDO

WITH the insurgent forces pressing steadily nearer to Madrid, the Government has decided to impose a curfew in the capital which will last every night from 11 o'clock until 6 a.m.

Following the capture on Thursday night of Siguenza, the key to the north-east route through Aragon to Saragossa and Catalonia, it was again reported yesterday that the insurgents had severed by aerial bombardment the railway line between Madrid and Aranjuer, the vital junction on the line to Alicante and Valencia.

This line had been reported previously as having been cut and swiftly repaired. If the insurgent claim means that the line has been again cut, and beyond possibility of repair, it means that the Spanish capital must face siege, or surrender, in the immediate future, as without the railway lines its population of a million souls must depend for supplies on the roads to Alicante and Valencia, which would be subject to aerial bombardment.

Meantime, the battle for Oviedo continues to rage with undiminished fierceness. The Asturian miners have penetrated further into the city, according to Government reports; many buildings are on fire, and the casualties are exceedingly heavy.

OVIEDO HOUSES NOW FORTRESSES

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MADRID, Friday.

Terrible fighting took place in different quarters of Oviedo to-day, where Government forces continued their efforts to penetrate the city and force the besieged insurgent garrison to surrender.

The attacking Asturian miners are now in control of the San Lazaro quarter, where the insurgents are said to have left thirty-seven dead, including a captain of the Civil Guard, on whose body was found a document instructing the garrison to resist to the last man, as reinforcements were on their way.

At the northern railway station the Government troops are occupying a strategic position which will facilitate an attack on the centre of the city, including the Calle de Uria, the famous main street. All the houses in the Calle de Uria have been transformed into veritable fortresses by the insurgents.

Many fires have broken out in the city, and the Convent of the Adoration is in flames.

CURFEW REGULATIONS

There is to be a curfew in Madrid from 11 o'clock every night until 6 a.m., according to a new order by the Minister of the Interior.

All public establishments are to shut by 10 p.m., and no one will be allowed in the streets after eleven, except those employed at night, who will be furnished with special cards.

Workers employed in the sanitary services, firemen, and so forth, will have to give a password to the militia patrolling the streets.

The editorial staffs of newspapers will have to leave their offices by midnight, and printers and others who remain on the premises will have to stay until six in the morning.

Reinforcements consisting of six hundred Moroccan troops and three hundred Legionaries arrived on the western frontier of the province on their way to relieve Oviedo, but they encountered Government troops near Grullos, and are said to have been routed, leaving twenty-seven dead on the field.

This morning's War Ministry communiqué makes no mention of the loss of Navalperal and Siguenza, merely referring to the insurgent attacks in those sectors.

TERMINUS OCCUPIED

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

RABAT, Friday.

Almarox, terminus of the railway from Madrid, via Navalcarnero, has been occupied by the insurgent forces, according to Radio Seville. This means that the insurgents' armies north, west and south-west of the capital are on the point of effecting a junction. San Martin de Valdeiglesias, the town lying just north of Almarox, is already in their hands.

At the Government auxiliary aerodrome at Almarox a number of wrecked 'planes are said to have been found.

The radio station adds that Malaga, Alicante and Barcelona were heavily bombed yesterday, and that considerable damage was caused, especially to the port of Barcelona.

It is stated that the Madrid Government has given instructions to the crews of vessels anchored in the Mediterranean ports to abandon their ships in the event of a bombardment by the insurgents.

At Madrid, it is added, a close watch is being kept on militiamen, as desertions are feared.

INSURGENT ALLEGATIONS

Radio Seville declares that the capture of Siguenza places Guadalajara, thirty-one miles from Madrid, in a critical position. Its surrender is expected shortly.

Both in Madrid and the Asturias the number of Government deserters is said to be increasing.

The Madrid Government, Radio Seville adds, continues to export gold from the Bank of Spain to foreign countries, where friends and relations of the Ministers squander it in purchases of so-called war material, which generally consists of useless scrap-iron sold to them by unscrupulous dealers. The Russian vessel Neva, it is alleged, has left Barcelona with 5,000,000 pesetas in gold from the Bank of Spain.

ALL-DAY BATTLE IN ARAGON

GOVERNMENT SUCCESSES CLAIMED

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BARCELONA, Friday.

An official communiqué states that on the Bujaraloz sector of the Aragon front the Government forces have gained a victory over four thousand insurgents, consisting of infantry, cavalry, artillery and aviation.

An all-day battle is said to have raged after the insurgents had attacked Tariete and Perdiguera, in the Monte Oscuro region. The insurgents were driven off, leaving 150 prisoners and much war material in the hands of the loyalists.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ST. JEAN DE LUZ, Friday.

The four Basque provinces which recently received autonomy from Madrid will be called by the single name of Navarre, it is learned here from Basque nationalist sources. The capital will be Pamplona.

Meanwhile the San Sebastian Municipal Council has met for the first time since the town was captured. The Council voted one million pesetas for the National Fund.

Refugees arriving here in the French gunboat Arras this morning state that the cruisers Jaime Primero and Cervantes are still in Bilbao Harbour.

ADVANCE ON THE ESCURIAL

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BURGOS, Friday.

An advance column of the insurgents has reached Navas del Marquas, four miles beyond Navalperal, which was taken yesterday. The advance is in the direction of El Escurial, the "Versailles of Spain," from which the troops are only ten miles away now. El Escurial is twenty-six miles from Madrid.

The advance in this sector is particularly important in order to ensure the safety of the road, linking Avila and Toledo

REFUGEES FROM MALAGA

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

GIBRALTAR, Friday.

The desperate plight of Malaga was described by refugees who arrived here to-day in H.M.S. Ardent. The refugees consisted of eleven British and twenty other nations

They said "Malaga's situation is getting hourly more desperate. There has not been a single Government warship there for two weeks. Daily aerial bombardments occur, causing panic among the whole remaining population. Only men are living in the city now, the women having fled into the country."

Among the refugees who arrived here to-day was a Spanish mother whose five sons were shot dead by the Communists because it was suspected that they did not sympathise with the Communist doctrines.

The mother recounted how the Communist Committee had told her: "We know that we shall be defeated, but we will fight to the end, and only surrender when the whole of Malaga is a mass of ruins and not a single Fascist sympathiser remains alive."

ATLANTIC AIRMAN FOR VALENTIA

EXPECTED THERE THIS MORNING

The Swedish airman, Kurt Bjoerkvall, who, after crashing into the sea off the south-west coast of Ireland, while flying from New York to Stockholm, will be landed on Valentia Island, Co. Kerry, at 10 a.m. to-day.

Bjoerkvall was rescued by Captain Oillie, of the French trawler, Imbrun, which was fishing close to the spot where the airman came down. An unsuccessful effort was made to save the 'plane, but it was so damaged by the heavy sea when taken in tow by the trawler that it sank after about 40 minutes.

The following radio message to the Irish Times was sent by the captain of the trawler last night:—

"Bjoerkvall left New York at 12.34 p.m. (Irish time) on Tuesday last, and was picked up in the sea late on Wednesday night."

Reuter's Jerusalem correspondent states that acts of sabotage have occurred in the forest, planted last year as British Jewry's memorial of the Silver Jubilee of King George. A considerable number of young trees were uprooted.

IRELAND TO HALIFAX

NEW EAST TO WEST FLIGHT

GALWAY AS FUELLING BASE

PREPARATIONS for a new East-to-West flight across the Atlantic from Ireland to Halifax have been completed by Luft Hansa, the immense German aviation company. Luft Hansa corresponds to Imperial Airways, and is one of the biggest air corporations in Europe. It is stated on reliable authority that the company intends to use Galway as a refuelling base for the latest Atlantic flight, and that at least one machine with a gross carrying weight of twenty-five tons will arrive in Galway this week-end to attempt the first heavier-than-air mail-carrying flight across the Atlantic.

Messrs. the Irish Shell Company have received instructions to supply fuel to the flying boat or boats when they arrive in Galway Harbour, and have completed arrangements to fuel the machines at any moment.

It would appear from the foregoing that the Luft Hansa Company has entered into competition with Pan-American Airways and Imperial Airways in the struggle for aerial supremacy in the North Atlantic. As already announced in these columns, the two first-mentioned companies are concentrating on an experimental route, which will utilise the Shannon estuary, midway between Rynanna, Co. Clare, and Foynes, Co. Limerick, as the European terminal of a Transatlantic service. In this proposal they have the approbation of the Canadian, British and Irish Free State Governments.

The new attempt would appear to be a demonstration of the carrying power of the Luft Hansa fleet of three-engined Junkers machines, each of which develops some 2,000 horse-power, and each of which has a cruising speed of 150 miles an hour. The machines are run on a new fuel, aviation dieseline, invented by Dr. Diesel, the famous German engineer; and, if the projected flight is successful, it will be the first time that the Atlantic has been flown by a heavier-than-air machine using Diesel engines. The Hindenburg and Graf Zeppelin, which, of course, are lighter-than-air machines, are run on these engines. It is claimed for the fuel that its cost is only 44 per cent. of the total all-over cost of operating air transport, and that the risk of fire is eliminated.

According to a report from London, two machines of the Luft Hansa Company are to do the trip. They are stated to be the sister 'planes Æolus and Zephyr. The report quotes Mr. W. E. Schmidt Rex, London Manager of Luft Hansa, as saying: "Both Æolus and Zephyr are to do the trip from New York to Germany, via the Newfoundland-Ireland route, together. The exact date has not yet been fixed, but it will be within the next two or three weeks.

"My head office in Berlin have completed their arrangements for the necessary supply of fuel to be available at Galway Harbour."

PRELUDE TO PEACE IN PALESTINE

ACCEPTANCE OF ROYAL APPEAL

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

JERUSALEM, Friday.

The first group conference of Arab National Committees and the Higher Arab Committee was held in Jerusalem to-day, and unanimously accepted the proposed royal appeal for the end of the strike. The text of this appeal, together with a manifesto, will be issued to-morrow.

At the conference to-day there were representatives from Jerusalem, Beitjallah, Bethlehem, Ramallah and Bireh, whilst three other group conferences will be held to-morrow with the Higher Committee.

The representatives of the National Committees to-day expressed complete confidence in the Higher Committee.

Meantime while Palestine waits for peace, isolated acts of terrorism continue. The solemn prayers of the Moslem Sabbath to-day were suddenly interrupted by a violent fracas within the precincts of the Great Mosque. Subsequently the dead body of a villager was found near St. Stephen's Gate, adjoining the entrance to the mosque area. He is believed to have been killed by Arabs, who suspected him of being a police informer.

NEW INDUSTRY IN TRIM

STATUTORY MEETING OF THE COMPANY

The statutory meeting of the Tore Manufacturing Company, Limited, was held in the Town Hall, Trim, yesterday, Mr. Frank Thornton, chairman of the company, presiding. Giving a report on the progress made to date, on behalf of the directors of the company, the chairman said that the factory would be completed by the end of November and goods would be in course of manufacture early in the following month. It was, he continued, hoped to be able to supply the trade with a large percentage of its requirements at a very early date. The first delivery of goods would be available in January, and he anticipated that the full requirements of the trade would be catered for by the month of March. He further informed the shareholders present that the manufactured goods would be distributed through the existing trade houses, as it would not be the policy of the directors to sell direct to consumers. He could guarantee to the public that there would be no increase in the cost of the goods to them. He pointed out that the company was unique in that it was 100 per cent. Irish in its directors and also in its share capital. The factory at Trim would be a model factory in every way. Its plant and machinery would be up-to-date in type, and the equipment would be of the best in Europe for the manufacture of the goods proposed to be produced there. In the early stages of manufacture technical assistance would be supplied by a firm of international repute, so as to ensure that the staff would be able to handle all goods the moment the factory commenced. The directors had sent key-men to a European factory for a course of training. The employés, he added, would be drawn from the Trim area, and notices of vacancies would shortly be advertised in the local Press. The new company will manufacture carbon papers, typewriter and other inked ribbons, stencils for duplicators, duplicator inks, stamp pads, stamp pad inks, etc. They have secured a splendid three-acre site, on which the factory is in course of erection.

HAVE YOU A PRETTY GIRL OR BOY?

If so, see the special announcement in the October issue of "The Irish Tatler and Sketch" (post free 4½d.), respecting the "Irish Tatler and Sketch" All-Ireland Pretty Child Competitions. Two valuable challenge cups (to be won outright) are offered, one in each class, as well as other prizes for the prettiest girl from 3 to 10 years, and also for the prettiest boy of similar age. The prizes will be presented by the Lord Mayor of Dublin after the winners have been decided by the votes of the readers of the "Irish Tatler and Sketch." Every mother should enter her children. Entries close on Wednesday, 4th November. No entrance fees. Photographs must be forwarded to "The Irish Tatler and Sketch," Commercial Buildings, Dublin.

MANAGERS BUT NO CORPORATION

INSPECTOR'S VIEW OF WATERFORD

SOLICITOR AND A "MOULDY SYSTEM"

FROM OUR REPORTER.

WATERFORD, Friday.

"IN Waterford it seems to me that there are really two or three managers and no Corporation. That is what it amounts to."

"The fact that an exemption has not been applied for in these cases is another instance of the Corporation's disregard for the Public Bodies Order."

These were two of the references to the Corporation made at the Waterford municipal inquiry to-day, the first by the Local Government Inspector, Mr. J. MacLysaght, and the second by Mr. Sean O hUadhaigh, solicitor, who is appearing for a number of Councillors and ratepayers.

TWO SURCHARGES

Mr. Liam Raftis, Borough Treasurer, dealing with certain surcharges made on the Corporation's account by the Local Government Auditor, said that one item was in respect of a messenger attached to his office, to whom he (the witness) authorised the payment of 5s. a week as overtime for certain extra work during the winter months. Approval was given to the matter in the ordinary way by the Committee of the Corporation and passed to the Corporation for approval.

The Inspector said that, having regard to the manner in which he had heard that the Corporation examined their accounts, he could not accept that explanation.

The witness stated in regard to another person whose employment came under the stricture of the Auditor, that his employment was authorised by Alderman Dawson, when Mayor, but that "by some strange means" the Auditor was informed that he (the witness) had done it.

Mr. Raftis added that the letter of authority could not be produced by the Surveyor's Department when asked for, but two clerks remembered that he had handed in the letter from the Mayor authorising the employment.

"In Waterford," remarked the Inspector, "you seem to have two or three managers and no Corporation. That is what it amounts to."

Mr. Raftis was also examined in regard to an article under the Public Bodies Order, requiring any officer of the Corporation, who received money on behalf of the Council, to issue an official receipt and to retain a carbon copy thereof.

He pointed out the difficulty of complying with this in the case of Reginald's Tower, the eleventh century fortress about fifty yards from the City Hall, to which visitors were admitted on payment of twopence. No receipt was issued in this case. There was also the case of the penny ferry across the river, in which only a penny ticket was issued.

Mr. O hUadhaigh said that obviously these were cases that could not be dealt with under the Article, and exemptions should have been applied for. The fact that these exemptions had not been applied for in these cases was, he said, just another instance of the Corporation's disregard for the Public Bodies Order.

"ANCIENT AND MOULDY"

A legal point in regard to the Borough Treasurer's position was raised by Mr. O hUadhaigh, when Mr. Raftis was examined on a reference in the Auditor's report to his position under the Public Bodies Order.

Mr. O hUadhaigh submitted that the "Borough Treasurer" was really only the chief accountanting officer and chief bookkeeping officer of the Corporation, and he quoted various Acts, showing that in actual fact the Treasurer was the Bank. His point was that the law, as it stood at present, should be complied with, and he thought it would be even better for the Treasurer himself if it were complied with.

Mr. O hUadhaigh pointed out that he did not in the least make any suggestion against Mr. Raftis, but the system at present in vogue in Waterford would enable a treasurer to play ducks and drakes with the Corporation's finances. The City of Waterford was fortunate, however, in that it had, under "an ancient and mouldy system," a man who was reliable and above suspicion.

Mr. Wood, K.C., who is appearing for the Corporation, agreed that the matter was an important one, and said that he thought that the Inspector might prefer to have the assistance of outside counsel. The Borough Treasurer had complied with his statutory obligations, and if, in being loyal to his position, his action was looked upon as non-compliance with the law, he (Mr. Wood) could not agree.

On the suggestion of Mr. O hUadhaigh it was decided to leave certain matters, such as the checking up of the Borough Treasurer's advice notes and the examination of a borough map in the hands of the Inspector, with a view to shortening the proceedings.

Mr. Wood stated that the Corporation invited the fullest public inquiry into all their affairs.

It was pointed out that to have a full examination of these matters in public would occupy considerable time, and neither of them were questions raised either in the auditor's report or in the memorial.

Mr. Wood then agreed to the course suggested.

The inquiry was adjourned till Monday.

STOLEN SOVEREIGNS

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

DUNDALK, Friday.

"Unless some of the gold is handed up between this and Monday, I shall have to send you to jail for a very long term."

This remark was addressed by Judge Comyn, K.C., at Dundalk Circuit Court to-day to Catherine McKeever, Allardstown, County Louth, who was found guilty by a jury of receiving one hundred and fourteen sovereigns, the property of another Mrs. Catherine McKeever, Mary street, South, Dundalk. The accused woman and the woman who lost the money were married to two brothers.

Christina Curtis, a niece of the accused woman, had been found guilty of stealing the gold, and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

Mrs. McKeever was recommended to mercy by the jury, and Judge Comyn said that he would give effect to that recommendation only on one condition—that some of the money was returned.

Mrs. McKeever denied that she knew anything about the gold, and added that she had not a penny.

It was stated in evidence that she had changed some of the gold with shopkeepers in Dundalk.

The Judge said that the little girl had already gone to Mountjoy for six months, but the sentence on the present accused would not be small if she did not return the money.

IRISH CHAMPIONSHIP TEST MATCH

In securing a draw and a win in the fourth and fifth games of the test match against the Munster champion, Mr. Cox, with the finishing score of 3½ points out of a possible 5, qualifies to play in the final against the holder, Mr. J. J. O'Hanlon, for the Irish championship. Mr. de Burca, whose play throughout has been up to a high standard, had the hardest of luck in the final game, when, after sacrificing 2 pieces for a winning attack, he had the misfortune to leave a rook en-prize, which ended a very fine effort to save the match.

A Reuter's message from Melbourne says—While judging dogs at the Royal Agricultural Show, Melbourne, Sir John Renwick, the English judge, was bitten in the arm by a greyhound, which knocked him down.

BETTER PRICES AT BALLINASLOE

BUSINESS MORE BRISK

GOOD CLEARANCE IN ALL DEPARTMENTS

FROM OUR REPORTER.

BALLINASLOE, Friday.

THE better prices paid for beef in the British market were reflected in the definite upward trend of business at the fair here to-day. Business generally was brisk and showed a definite improvement over last year. Good clearances were made in all departments. This was evident, especially in respect of the older animals, the prices of which increased by about £2 a head. The smaller cattle were even dearer, but heifers were from 10s. to £1 a head below the prices paid for bullocks.

A GRAZIER'S FAIR

During the year the Leinster graziers have been receiving more for their cattle. The English Government is giving a subsidy on all fat cattle to their farmers. The English idea of the finished animal is different from that obtaining here; and as the only source of supply of suitable stores for finishing purposes is this country the Irish farmer is getting the benefit.

The fair is primarily one for the graziers, and there was a good attendance from Dublin, Meath and Kildare. The price for shorthorn stores, which were most in evidence, was about 20s. a cwt. for three-year-olds. For two-year-old Aberdeen Angus crosses the price paid represented 25s. a cwt.

The top price of the fair was received by Mr. R. Howard, of Eyrecourt, who sold a number of heavy bullocks for £16 15s. The purchaser was Mr Moran, of Ratoath. The top price paid for Aberdeen Angus cattle was £13 a head. Mr. J. Johnston, Fohenagh, Ballinasloe, sold twenty black polies weighing about 9½ cwt. for £11 each. The average price for three-year-olds was from £11 to £14, two-year-olds from £7 10s. to £10, and yearlings £5 to £6.

THE SALES

The following are some of the sales:—

John Bruton, Dunboyne, Co. Meath, bought 200 head from different owners at prices ranging from £6 10s. to £14.

Cosgrave Brothers, Enfield, bought 200 animals at prices ranging from £9 to £14.

Mr. J. Burke, Castlepollard, bought 200 at from £5 to £14.

Mr. Roantree, for Messrs. Gavin Low, bought 200 at prices ranging from £8 to £12 10s.

Captain T. D. Seymour, Laurencetown, sold thirty three-year-old bullocks for £12 10s. and eleven heifers for ten guineas each.

Mr. J. Colohan, Aughrim, sold 25 three-year-old bullocks at £13 each. J. Raftery, Woodlawn, sold 20 three-year-olds at £11 10s. to Major Bomford.

Mr. O. Jennings, Ballinasloe, sold 27 bullocks at £12 10s.

The Tracey brothers, Loughrea, sold to Mr. O'Toole, Edenderry, two lots of twenty, each at £11 10s. and £11 5s. J. Glynn, Loughrea, sold 40 cattle to Burke Bros., of Enfield, for £11 10s. each. N. L'Estrange, Shannonbridge, sold 40, including 20 whiteheads, at prices ranging from £11 to £12.

Mr. J. A. B. Trench sold two lots of 2½ years old Herefords and pollies at £11.

Mr. Howard, of Eyrecourt, besides receiving the top price, also got £14 a head for a lot of 20, and £13 10s. for another lot.

Mr. A. F. Kenny, Ballyboose, received prices ranging from £12 10s. to £11 15s. for forty shorthorns and Herefords.

Ed. Grogan, Carbery, Co. Kildare, bought 20 Hereford bullocks at £12 from Mr. P. Page, Portumna. Joseph Dames, Rhode, Offaly, bought 20 Hereford bullocks for £13 each.

John Galvin, Newtownmore, Co. Westmeath, bought 22 Herefords at £12 each.

Mrs. Dillon, Clonbrock estate, sold 12 Hereford bullocks for £11 5s. each and 20 heifers for £10 5s. each. E. B. Elliott, Ahascragh, sold 80 heifers at £9 10s. each.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC

Four hundred wagons of cattle left Ballinasloe to-day for Dublin and the Midlands. This constituted an increase of one hundred over last year's figure.

BOOT FACTORY TROUBLE

THREE HUNDRED MEN IDLE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

KILKENNY, Friday.

Following the posting of notice announcing a re-adjustment of working hours, there was a meeting of operatives of the Kilkenny boot factory last night, and to-day all the staff, with the exception of four English men, are out of work.

The system that has been operating since June was that forty-four hours were worked in five days' work, starting at 8 a.m. and terminating at 6 p.m. each day, and no work on Saturday.

The new arrangement proposed by the management, which was to come into operation to-day, was that, without increasing the hours, the men would work five and a half days, commencing at 8.30 a.m. and finishing at 5.30, and working until 12.30 on Saturday.

The number of employés affected is about three hundred, including twelve teacher operators from Stafford and Northampton.

The management claim that the new arrangement in no way contravenes the Factory Hours Act.

A representative of the employés stated that they regard the position in the nature of a lock-out rather than a strike, they having reported for work as usual at 8 o'clock this morning and were not admitted.

IRISH WEDDING IN LONDON

MR. J. E. LONGFIELD AND MISS M. L. WADDELL

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Friday.

Mr. John E. Longfield, whose marriage to Miss Mary Lyon Waddell, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Waddell, of Beenham House, Beenham, Berks., has taken place at St. Mary's Church, Beenham, is the youngest son of Major and Mrs. Longfield, of Longville, Mallow, County Cork.

Canon S. H. P. Harman, of Mallow, with the Rev. R. Howes, of Beenham, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of cream satin, cut on classical lines, with a halo head-dress, holding in place a full-length veil of Limerick lace, which, with the long sash of her gown material, formed a train, which was carried by two little pages—Master Desmond Longfield and Master Bobby Bridges.

The bride's sisters—Miss Marjorie and Miss Shiela Waddell—were the bridesmaids. They wore close-fitting taffeta gowns and carried bouquets of pink rosebuds and fern, tied with pink ribbon.

Mr. Hugh Holmes acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at Beenham House.

Nails in the Turf.—At Tralee Circuit Criminal Court yesterday, John Dowling, Glenmoe, was found guilty of stealing turf belonging to Patrick Herlihy, and was given a suspensory sentence of three months' hard labour and ordered to enter into sureties to keep the peace for three years. His son, Denis, was found not guilty. The owner of the turf had put nails in the sods to identify them. The turf was sold to the Civic Guards.

ROSSE COLLEGE (LADIES' DEPT), 65 Stephen's Green, Dublin. Thorough Office Training. Preparation for Civil Service Exams., Bank and Guinness Clerkships, etc. —(Advt.)

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

CORONATION SEATS

The Times, concluding a leading article to-day, says:—An announcement that the Office of Works intended to put up stands on a great scale and to sell the seats at a reasonable profit would instantly cause a revision in the estimate of a marketable return on the other places along the route; but that would be only a part of a much greater benefit. The capital need is not to prevent profiteering at the expense of a few who like to throw their money about. It is that as many as possible of King Edward's subjects from all parts of his Empire should give him welcome and God-speed immediately before or after the most solemn of all the ceremonials of a monarch's reign, and that none of them should be prevented from coming to the Coronation or from coming to England by inability to pay for a place. If the Government's intention to provide large numbers of seats were to be made known with the least possible delay, then there would be plenty of time for the formation or revision of the plans of would-be seatholders, and plenty of time also for working out the details and methods of distribution.

It might, perhaps, be found possible to devote a considerable number of seats for Government hospitality to representatives of foreign countries. Another large section might be entrusted to the High Commissioners of the Dominions and the Crown Agents of the Colonies and Protectorates for gift or sale to visitors from the several countries of the Empire, and the third, and largest, share might be offered for sale within the United Kingdom. Applications would certainly be far more numerous than seats, but the lists could be closed in good time, the successful applicants be determined by lot, and every possible restriction be put on speculation and resale. The undertaking would be big, but not too big nor difficult for the experienced hands of the Office of Works.

The immediate need is the assurance that the Government will make use of its power to fill more than half the route with loyal and contented subjects who must otherwise have stayed away.

LEAGUE REFORM PROBLEM

GENERAL COMMITTEE ADOPTS REPORT

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

GENEVA, Friday.

The General Committee, thanks to the steady pressure of Mr. Bruce, the chairman, adopted its report this evening, so that the Assembly will be in a position to-morrow to appoint the committee of twenty-eight which is to discuss the problem of League reform.

The proceedings were delayed by the tactics of the Chilean delegate, who pressed for the adoption of a resolution suggesting a diplomatic conference to bring about the universality of the League.

M. Litvinoff said very bluntly that, although he was in principle in favour of universality of the League, he did not agree that it was the lack of universality that had defeated the application of sanctions. Rather was it the lack of loyalty to the Covenant, and he feared that if the particular Power which Chile had in mind had been in the League it would have meant that there would have been another backslider from grace.

M. LITVINOFF PLEASED

The report provides that the Council and thirteen other members of the League shall form a committee to discuss means of improving the application of the Covenant.

To M. Litvinoff's surprise and gratification, the New Zealand representative suggested an amendment to the resolution empowering the Committee to convene a special session of the Assembly, if advisable, after their report had been completed. M. Litvinoff had made a similar suggestion in the Bureau and it was turned down. The New Zealand amendment was carried.

In the circumstances, it is hoped that it may be possible to close the Assembly to-morrow morning. The Council will meet in the afternoon to fix the date of the convocation of the Disarmament Bureau.

The special Reform of the Covenant Committee will also meet to elect its chairman to-morrow and to fix a date upon which to begin work.

PRIEST'S OPPOSITION TO DANCE HALL LICENCE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

NENAGH, Friday.

At Nenagh Circuit Court to-day, the Toomevara Parish Hall Committee appealed against the decision of District Justice Flood in refusing to grant a dance licence for the hall. The Rev. J. Clancy, P.P., who opposed the granting of the licence, said that some time ago a young man was arrested illegally and tried by a so-called court-martial because he was a member of the I.R.A. and had joined the Free State Volunteers. The boy was chained to the church railings, and the hero of that happening was made secretary of the dance hall committee—an affront to all decent feeling of the parish.

The Judge reversed the decision of District Justice Flood and granted the licence, provided proper sanitary arrangements were made and that the secretary send in his resignation to the court registrar.

THE FRENCH COMMUNISTS

GERMAN FRONTIER MEETINGS

TENSE FEELING IN PARIS AND BERLIN

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Friday.

COMMUNIST Party demonstrations in Alsace-Lorraine to-morrow and Sunday, already reduced from 127 to 56, may finally be whittled down to ten or less. The Government, it is believed, is really determined that only ten of these meetings on the German frontier shall be held. One side must yield, and the Government cannot.

Fears that Hitler might organise a colossal counter-demonstration have been expressed in the Paris Press. At the same time a Government communiqué issued early to-day announcing that agreement on ten meetings had been reached appears to have been due to a misunderstanding.

YESTERDAY'S DISCUSSIONS

District headquarters of the party declined to have their hands forced and issued an indignant communiqué, whereupon the Press Bureau of the party denied the existence of any such agreement. From the Press Bureau's statement, issued this afternoon, it appears that the reduction of the number of meetings from 127 to 56 was due to steps taken by local Communist organisations.

The tenseness of yesterday's all-day long discussions between party officials and Government leaders was only fully appreciated to-day. President Lebrun, the Premier, M. Blum; the Minister of the Interior, M. Salengro; the Under-Secretary for Alsace-Lorraine, M. de Tessan; Assistant Secretary-General of the Communist Party, M. Duclos, and M. Marcel Gitton all took part.

Posters have appeared in many places declaring that Alsace "will not tolerate Communist provocation promoted by Moscow, and if the competent authority fails means will, nevertheless, be found to take action."

In the villages Catholics are organising measures to ensure order.

POLICE PRECAUTIONS

The Executive Committee of the Social Party has addressed an appeal to all its members to stand together whatever happens.

It was understood to-night that Government quarters were confident that an "invitation" issued by the Ministry of the Interior, asking the Communist Party to confine its meetings to ten, would be accepted.

The places where meetings should take place were enumerated.

The Government decided to-night to reinforce the police in districts where meetings are due to take place, to prevent clashes between the Right and Left, and orders were issued for the maintenance of order.

The last reply from the Communists to-night was that they intended to hold fifty-two meetings.

GERMANY KEENLY INTERESTED

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Friday.

Official circles in Germany are following the French Communist struggle to hold week-end meetings in Alsace-Lorraine with great interest. Despite their natural reluctance to make any comment, it may be taken as certain that such demonstrations would be viewed by Herr Hitler himself as convincing proof of his contention that Moscow's agents are at work all around his country. The Fuehrer told Reuter's Correspondent in a talk during the Nuremberg Congress: "I have only one fear—and I say it quite openly—that countries around us in which this Bolshevist poison is eating its way will succumb one after the other. To that we in Germany could not possibly be indifferent, for, after all, we are a European nation."

Communist demonstrations at Germany's door would be viewed as ominously justifying the leader's fears. They would certainly also be the occasion for a fresh outburst in the Press against Russia. The German Press is already greatly excited. "Communist Provocation in Alsace," "Red Sunday," "Government Powerless," are some of the headlines covering the front pages.

CORK AIRPORT

DEPUTATION TO MINISTER

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Friday.

"The first question the Minister would ask them would be what they were prepared to do themselves."

This was a remark made by the chairman of the Cork Joint Airport Committee, Mr. J. J. Horgan, at a meeting here to-day, when the establishment of an airport and seaplane base was being discussed.

Mr. J. Fitzgerald, Cove U.D.C., said that Cork was in a better position than any other location for getting ahead with the establishment of an air service. It remained to get the authorities sufficiently interested in the project to bring it to a successful conclusion.

The Chairman suggested that the matter be referred back to the various local bodies with a recommendation that a deputation be sent to the Minister, the deputation to be supplied with full details of what the local bodies were prepared to do in the event of the Minister co-operating.

Mr. P. Monahan, City Manager, said that he was satisfied it was desirable that facilities for landing and departing aeroplanes should be available in the vicinity of Cork. If facilities for landing and departing by air were not available in Cork and were available in Dublin and Galway, those places would develop at Cork's expense. It came to a simple question of determining how much they were prepared to pay for it. The cost of providing an aerodrome would be about £30,000, and the annual upkeep might run to £5,000 or £7,000. If the local authorities were prepared to meet the difference between maintenance cost and revenue, then the airport could be established. He believed that unless air facilities were provided Cork would tend to go off the map as far as tourist traffic was concerned.

Mr. M. J. Corry, T.D., said that he understood there was a request from the Government to establish such an aerodrome in Cork. Facilities were being provided in Galway and Foynes, and what traffic would then be left for Cork? He wanted to know what would be the position of these airports in case of war, whether they would be taken over by the British Government, or whether they would draw this country from being in a neutral position into that of a participant. "We are within twelve months of war at the outside," said Mr. Corry.

It was decided to send a deputation to discuss the matter with the Minister for Industry and Commerce, the following to be members: Messrs. Gayer, O'Connor, Powell, Fitzgerald and Monahan.

TRIBUTE TO DEAD FIREMEN

TO-DAY'S PUBLIC FUNERAL

Thousands of sympathisers lined the streets of Dublin last night when the remains of Firemen Malone, McArdle and Nugent, who had lost their lives in the fire in Pearse street on Monday night last, were removed from the City Hall to the Church of St. Andrew, Westland row.

All through the day the bodies had lain in state in the City Hall, and thousands of members of the public had filed with respectful sympathy past the coffins. In a railed off space were laid numerous beautiful wreaths, prominent among them being floral tributes from the Fire Brigades of London, Belfast and Glasgow.

THE REMOVAL

There were moving scenes in the Rotunda of the City Hall when the bodies were removed. The relatives were present, as well as the Lord Mayor of Dublin, the City Manager and members of the City Council. The coffins were borne by firemen comrades of the dead men to waiting fire engines. Then, headed by the St. James's Brass and Reed Band and a contingent of old I.R.A., the funeral procession moved off through Castle street, Christchurch place, Lord Edward street and Dame street, passing through lines of spectators who crowded the road on both sides.

At the church the remains were received by the Very Rev. W. Burke, Adm., who was assisted by the Rev. Dr. O'Reilly, the Rev. Father Jones, the Rev. Father Gough, the Rev. T. W. O'Ryan, P.P., and the Rev. F. J. Casey, C.C.

The funeral will take place to Glasnevin Cemetery after Requiem Mass to-day at 10 o'clock.

Among the wreaths were tributes from the officers and men of the Dublin Fire Brigade, the Fire Brigades of London, Cork, Belfast and Glasgow; Dail Eireann, Fianna Fail Party, Kildare Street Club, Exide Batteries Company, Old I.R.A., Garda Siochana (D.M.G.), Municipal Employés' Association, the City Manager and Departments of the Corporation, Arthur Guinness and Co.

THE FUNERAL ROUTE

The route to be taken by the funeral procession will be from St. Andrew's Church to Pearse street, then through D'Olier street, O'Connell street, Parnell Square, Blessington street and Berkeley road to Glasnevin Cemetery.

Although a public fund has not yet been opened, a number of subscriptions in aid of the relatives of the dead firemen has been received by the Lord Mayor, including a subscription of £100 from Exide Batteries Company and £25 from Mrs. Christopher Murphy.

GROW MORE WHEAT

BEST-PAYING CROP ON THE FARM

The notice issued by the Department of Agriculture which appears in our advertisement columns urging farmers not only to get in readiness for the new season's wheat-growing campaign, but, where possible, to enlarge still further the area devoted to that crop, is a timely reminder that the wheat-sowing season is again almost upon us, and that growers who wish to secure their share of the fruit of the campaign would be well advised to prepare now.

Taking Ireland as a whole, soil and climate, as well as the rotational systems in vogue, are eminently suitable to the wheat crop, which is gradually extending. The area under wheat expanded from 21,000 acres in 1932 to 255,000 acres in the cereal year just closed; and the experience of last year proved that in a relatively bad season the crop will stand up successfully against weather conditions which would seriously reduce the value of other cereal crops. Last year the weather conditions not only at sowing time, but almost right through the growing period were as unfavourable as any experienced in this country in the past, or likely to be experienced in the future, and yet the general tenor of the reports received from representative millers is that the grain obtained from the recent harvest is being received in the mills in surprisingly good condition. It was, of course, to have been expected that the yield, both here and in Great Britain, would be below that obtained under the exceptionally favourable weather conditions which prevailed in the three preceding seasons and that the grain would have a rather higher moisture content; but, after making full allowance for such drawbacks which are incidental to every crop produced on the farm in an unfavourable season, there is no room for doubt that the wheat crop on the whole was successful, and that, at the prices prevailing this season for millable grain, it is, and will continue to be, one of the best paying crops on the farm.

The effect of the wheat scheme so far as Saorstat farmers are concerned is that the nation this year, instead of buying its full requirements in wheat from farmers in other countries, will distribute among Saorstat growers a sum of nearly £2,000,000 for the produce of their wheat crops just harvested.

The aim of the Government is to advance still further; they desire to see the area under wheat progressively increased until the the country is self-sufficing in the matter of its bread supplies. This year's harvest will not cover more than one-third of those supplies. There is consequently still no fear of the market being glutted or that any wheat grown will not find a ready buyer. The grower is safeguarded in that respect by the Government's guarantee that all millable wheat produced will be bought at nothing less than the minimum prices which they have fixed. Farmers should not hesitate, therefore, to extend the acreage under wheat.

The experience of last year proved that growers who sowed the seed early, even under what appeared to be unfavourable soil conditions, were ultimately repaid by having better crops than those who adopted the more cautious policy of waiting for better weather.

TO GET BEST TERMS

A notice issued yesterday by the Free State Department of Agriculture states:—

"Wheat-growers are advised that, in view of the year's exceptionally wet harvest, it would be in their interest to dispose of their wheat as soon as possible after threshing, and thus ensure that the wheat will not deteriorate in value owing to being kept in sacks in a moist condition.

"Should a grower's millable wheat be refused by a miller without assigning a reason, or on the grounds that it is excessively damp, the grower should communicate immediately with the Department of Agriculture, Dublin, so that the matter may be investigated. A sample of the wheat should also be sent to the Department.

"Growers should satisfy themselves that the bushelling of their wheat by intending purchasers is not carried out on any apparatus other than one of approved type."

LOANS FOR FARMERS

It will be noticed from our advertising columns that credit-worthy farmers can now obtain loans spread over a period of years from the Agricultural Credit Corporation at an interest rate of five per cent. This rate should make borrowing for agricultural purposes a profitable investment in view of recent improvements in agricultural conditions. There is also the advantage that throughout the period of repayment the rate remains constant, and is not liable to be increased even if general money rates increase.

The Corporation publishes a handbook, a copy of which should be in the possession of every farmer. It gives particulars of the various loan schemes, and can be obtained on application at their offices at 2 Merrion square, Dublin.

HARVEST FESTIVAL SERVICES

Methodist Centenary Church.—Harvest Services are to be held to-morrow and Monday in the Methodist Centenary Church, St. Stephen's Green, South. The preacher to-morrow will be the Rev. James Smythe, D.D., LL.D., principal of the United Theological College, Montreal, Canada. Dr. Smythe was formerly a minister of the Irish Methodist Church, and his visit to Dublin will be of much interest to many friends. At the evening Service the choir, under the direction of Miss Sylvia Fannin, will sing Spohr's cantata, "God, Thou art great!" This is a captata of much beauty, and is not often heard in Dublin. Mr. Edwin Deale will be at the organ. On Monday evening a Praise Service will be held, at which Mr. Edwin W. Booth will preside, and the Rev. W. W. Hutchinson will give an address. The collections at each of these Services will be given to the Home Missionary work of the Methodist Church in Ireland.

St. Philip and St. James.—The annual Harvest Festival Services will be held in St. Philip and St. James's Church, Booterstown, to-morrow. The preacher in the morning will be the Rev. H. S. Jackson, of Ruanda, and in the evening the Right Rev. T. A. Harvey, D.D., Lord Bishop of Waterford. The anthems will be "The heavens are telling" (Haydn) and "Father of mercies," in the morning and evening respectively. The collections will be for the Association for the Relief of Distressed Protestants and the Blackrock, District Nursing Association.

St. Paul's Church.—Harvest Thanksgiving Services will be held in St. Paul's Church (North King street) to-morrow. There will be Holy Communion at 8 a.m. and 11.30 a.m. The preacher at Morning Prayer will be the Rev. J. B. Neligan, M.A., Rector of Clontarf. At the Young People's Offering Service, at 3.30, the address will be given by the Rev. W. C. G. Proctor, B.D., who has just been nominated Rector of Harold's Cross. The preacher at Evening Prayer will be the Rev. Canon Oulton, D.D., Regius Professor of Divinity in the University of Dublin. The thankofferings will be divided among several Dublin charities.

Zion Church, Rathgar.—Harvest Thanksgiving Services will be held to-morrow, the preacher at all Services being the Rev. Canon J. Purser Shortt. At the Young People's Service at 3.30 p.m. gifts of flowers and fruit will be received for the hospitals. Special music will be rendered by the choir as follows: Benedicite Omnia Opera, Naylor in G; Anthem, "Ye Shall Dwell in the Land" (Stainer). Evening Service: Battison Haynes in E flat. Soloists—Mrs. T. Atock and Mr. G. Godfrey.

St. Stephen's Church.—Harvest Festival Services will be held at St. Stephen's Church to-morrow. The preacher at the 11 o'clock Service will be Canon Simpson, Rector of St. Bartholomew's, and the Rev. J. Tobias, Rector of Rathmines, will preach at Evensong. Offerings will be divided between the Association for the Relief of Distressed Protestants and St. Patrick's Nurses' Home.

Drumcondra Church.—Harvest Thanksgiving Services will be held in Drumcondra Church to-morrow at 12 noon, 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. The special preacher at Morning Prayer will be Rev. R. R. Hartford, B.D., Archbishop King's Profesor of Divinity, T.C.D.: at Evening Prayer, Rev. Precentor Lewis-Crosby, B.D., Rector of Stillorgan. The collections will be for the Protestant Orphan Society. In the afternoon, at 4 p.m., a Children's Gift Service will be held, when gifts of toys, books, etc., will be received for the Dublin hospitals. The preacher will be Rev. C. H. Lloyd, B.A.

Christ Church, Leeson Park.—The preacher at the Morning Service (11.30 a.m.) in connection with the Harvest Festival at Christ Church, Leeson Park, Dublin, to-morrow will be the Bishop of Limerick, who will also preach at the Evening Service at 7 p.m. Collections will be made on behalf of the Poor Parishioners Fund.

St. Werburgh's Parish.—Harvest Services will be held to-morrow at 11.15 a.m., 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. The usual preparations for the festival have been made, and this old historic church presents an appearance of order and beauty with flowers, fruits and offerings of various kinds. Friends from a distance will doubtless be pleased to renew their acquaintance with the church and parish at these special Services. An appeal will be made for the Repairs Fund.

Sandford Parish Church.—The preacher at Morning and Evening Prayer will be the Ven. A. J. Johnston, B.D., Archdeacon of Glendalough. Special music will be rendered by the choir at these Services, which will include: Te Deum, Smart in F; Jubilate, Sullivan in D; Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, Stainer in A; Anthem, "Honour the Lord" (Stainer).

The Scots' Church.—Harvest Thanksgiving Services will be held in the Church at Lower Abbey street, Dublin to-morrow. The preacher at the 11.45 a.m. Service will be the Rev. A. H. Macpherson, and at the 7 p.m. Service the Rev. R. Crossett, of Bray. There will be special music by the choir.

St. Aidan's Church.—Harvest Thanksgiving Services will be held to-morrow in St. Aidan's Church. There will be celebration of Holy Communion at 8 a.m., and after Morning Prayer. At the 11.30 a.m. Service the preacher will be the Rev. J. E. Hazley, M.A., Rector of Wexford. At 3.30 p.m. there will be a Children's Festival Gift Service. At 7 p.m. the preacher will be the Rev. Canon Powell, M.A., Rector of Donnybrook.

St. Augustine's Church.—Harvest Thanksgiving Services will be held to-morrow at 8 a.m., 11.30 a.m., 3.30 p.m. and 7 p.m. in St. Augustine's Church, North Circular road. There will be Holy Communion at 8 a.m. and after the 11.30 a.m. Service. At Morning Prayer the preacher will be the Archbishop of Dublin. At 3.30 p.m. there will be a Children's Festival Gift Service, at which the preacher will be the Rev. K. D. B. Dobbs. At 7 p.m. the preacher will be the Rev. J. E. Hazley, M.A., Rector of Wexford.

French-Bred Colt Wins October Handicap at 20 to 1

HAYDOCK, Friday Night.

THERE were several surprising results at Haydock Park to-day. Two of the winners started at 20 to 1, while backers had to wait until the last race before a favourite was successful.

One of the 20 to 1 winners was Atout Royal in the October Handicap, the chief event on the card. This French-bred colt is trained by Houghton at Neston, Cheshire, the adjoining county. Those who supported Atout Royal on the tote received over £19 for their two-shilling stake, which is equivalent to odds of over 195 to 1.

The race was run at a good pace, and as the straight was reached Fair William was in the lead, with Stainforth, Pinfire and Kerosene going strongly close behind.

There was a quick change soon after. The leading four dropped back and Tapageur went to the front with Atout Royal and Prudent Act, while Impression also began to make up ground.

Made His Challenge

Tapageur increased his lead slightly at the distance. Then Atout Royal made his challenge and went on to win by a length. Prudent Act gained the minor position, a length and a half further behind. Impression ran well under his big weight to gain fourth place. Kerosene, the favourite, was prominent up to half-way up the straight and then weakened to finish sixth.

There was a thrilling finish to the Newton Nursery Handicap, S. Middleton getting Morning Flight up in the last few strides to beat the favourite, Verona. T. Weston jumped Verona away quickly at the start and she soon had a clear lead of her field. She was travelling smoothly, and below the distance her followers were on good terms with themselves.

Middleton then sat down to ride Morning Flight. First of all he tried to come through on the rails, but found he could find no opening. He then drew the colt to the outside and managed to get up on the post for a short-head victory. It was clever riding. Spectrum gained the minor berth, two lengths further behind. Royal Venture and Ferox were not beaten far out of a place.

Middleton's Double

S. Middleton completed a double when he got Deliast—yet another outsider—home a short-head in front of Aurora III. in the Maiden Plate.

Record Reign was third on merit. Gracious Gift, a hot favourite, appeared to break down during the race, and Carslake trotted the gelding past the post. Bold Outlaw was left, and took no part in the race.

Deliast was the second "leg" of the tote double, and only one person succeeded in bringing it off. That fortunate backer received £2,016 18s. for a 10s. outlay.

Only Successful Favourite

Pegomas, who has been heavily backed to win the Cambridgeshire, beat his two opponents, Spartan III. and Penny Royal, quite easily in the Golbourne Sweepstake. Odds had to be laid on his chance. He was the only successful favourite of the day.

The other 20 to 1 winner was Keepsake, in the Glazebrook Selling Handicap. The filly was a comfortable winner from Rhea and Velocity, and was bought in for 250 guineas.

Romney Lady led all the way to win the Earlstown Selling Plate, and was subsequently sold to Mr. J. Shand for 620 guineas.

RUSSBOROUGH SCORES

Mr. W. J. Kelly Wins Two Races at the Curragh

WHILE there was no race of such an attractive kind as either the Irish Cesarewitch or the National Produce Stakes on the opening day's card at the Curragh, the racing attained to a nice standard of excellence, and was witnessed by a fairly good-sized crowd. Mr. W. J. Kelly, who has a big string of horses in training, won two races with Mariegoulde and Soldenno, both trained by himself.

The Probationers' Stakes, which brought some useful two years old into opposition, was won by Captain D. W. Daly's Russborough after a close tussle with Solecism and Portlester. The winner was under pressure a long way from home, and looked like being beaten by Portlester, who was travelling fast at the finish, but he stayed on well, and thus confirmed the good impression formed of him when he ran Engagement to a head at the Leopardstown First August Meeting.

MARIEGOULDE AGAIN

Mariegoulde, who won the Scurry Plate at the last meeting in runaway style, was made favourite for the corresponding race now, and, though asked a far bigger question, she ran on gamely to stall off the challenge of Madrigal, who did not quite stay out the full course. Ombee was prominent for a long way, but faded out of the picture close home, and Pretty Land, who was behind in the early stages, ran on into third place.

There was a had upset to calculations when Mill Man got beaten by both Soldenno and Tom Lynam in the Mountjoy Plate. Long odds were laid on Mrs. M. Dawson's gelding, and he looked like winning easily until close home, when the two named challenged, and, having nothing in reserve, both passed him in the last thirty yards, and had the race been a little further Tom Lynam would doubtless have won.

OUTSIDER OF THREE

The English importation, Prince Khan, the outsider of a party of three runners, gave Mr. P. J. Lenehan an easy winning ride in the Curragh plate over the mile and a half course. Atco, the favourite, made his own pace, but when well in the line for home was passed by Prince Khan, who then held off Fancy Star to score without being fully extended.

Knight's Boy, who had disappointed several times when confidently expected to win, made amends by a very stylish victory in the Juvenile Plate. Quickly away from the gate in company with Windstorm, he took the lead at half-way and though the favourite, Spion Hill, put in a strong challenge close home it was all to no avil.

R. Fetherstonhaugh, the trainer of Spion Hill, had some compensation for the defeat of the latter when Passage thanks to the vigorous riding of T. Burns, got up in the last few strides to deprive another favourite, Yellowdine, of the spoils attached to the Welter Plate. Details :—

NEWMARKET HINTS FOR TO-DAY

At Haydock Park the Lowton Welter may be won by REVELATION.

His stable companion, CORDILLERAS, will run in the Haydock Autumn Handicap, and although she appears to have her share of weight I expect to see her run a good race.

DIBYLNO has yet to register a winning bracket, but may succeed in the Carrington Selling Nursery.

For the Alvaston Nursery my vote goes to POLLY AVON FILLY (nap), who is at the bottom of the weights, and ran a good race when third to Puzzler and Mickey the Greek at Yarmouth.

RYDAL should win the Park Plate.

At Chepstow ALISTAIR (next best) is greatly fancied for the Severn Plate.

At Alexandra Park my fancies are :—2.30, Wiley Friar; 3.0, Aubergine; 3.30, Theio

CURRAGH PROGRAMME

VOTE FOR CABIN FIRE

Rattle Up and Yellow Furze for Places in Cesarewitch

THE Irish Cesarewitch, to be run at the Curragh this afternoon, will attract a field of thirty-two runners, including three from English stables—Prince Aly Khan's Epi Normand, Miss K. Farrar's Flaxley Tom, and Mr. J. S. Davies's Jeremiah. Of the three Flaxley Tom, who will be ridden by J. Taylor, appears to have shown the most consistent form, and in a year when the class of the runners is not very high he must have a big chance.

Of the home-trained division the steeplechasers, Cabin Fire and Yellow Furze, look to hold excellent chances, and Corofin, who ran well in the Galway Hurdle, is another that must come into the reckoning. H. Beasley has been engaged to ride Cabin Fire, who has not run since finishing second to Yellow Furze in the Galway Plate. He is very much fancied, and will be the main hope of the South.

Yellow Furze will not lack for anything as regards jockeyship with T. Burns in the saddle, and he has already displayed useful form on the flat, for he beat Peaceful Princess at level weights at Leopardstown. Caherpeak's recent win at Naas brings him into the reckoning also, while on some of his form Rattle Up has a distinct chance. To sum up, Cabin Fire, Rattle Up and Yellow Furze are taken as three likely to be concerned in the finish of what will be a most interesting race, and, while is named as the winner, the other two may prove useful outsiders for place investments.

As well as the long-distance handicap, the other events are of an attractive nature, especially the National Produce Stakes, in which such smart two years old as Burdock, Engagement, Armagh, Breffni Boy and Bachelor's Bower are engaged, as well as Solver, a third candidate from the Heath stable, who has never run. While regarding Armagh as a danger, the selection is who won the Railway Stakes at the last Curragh meeting in the style of a good horse. Selections :—

Kildare Plate—Stratocrat.
Royal Whip—Harvest Star.
Irish Cesarewitch—Cabin Fire, win; Rattle Up and Yellow Furze, places.
Stand Plate—Tizzywizzy.
National Produce Stakes—Burdock.
Loughbrown Plate—St. Ultan.

OUTLIER FOR CUP

Obliterated May Win Chief Event at Haydock

THERE are meetings to-day at Alexandra Park, Haydock Park, and Chepstow. No fewer than twelve of the eighteen events are handicaps, so backers have plenty of scope for speculation.

The best-class horses will be running at Alexandra Park, where Lord Portman's well-known grey, The Font, will endeavour to defy top-weight in the Autumn Cup. The Font, although third to Montrose and Hypothesis in the Duke of York Handicap last week-end, may have too much to do. My selection is an improving Manton-trained filly, who will be in receipt of 9lb. from The Font. She won with a lot in hand from Canyonette, Priority and eight others over a mile and a half at Bath in August, and the handicapper may not have got her measure. The extra furlong to be covered here should not trouble her, for she is by Foxlaw, all of whose stock are genuine stayers.

Milldoria, the mount of Gordon Richards, has less to do at the weights than in her last two races. Sandstar, too, can be fancied on some running. The going might not be soft enough for last year's winner, Bright Armour. Milldoria appears to be the chief danger to Outlier.

The Woodland Nursery will take a lot of winning. Less than a stone separates eighteen of the twenty left in, so it will be realised how open it is. I fancy most because she has done well in her last two races. She was bought in for 550 guineas after beating some smart platers at Sandown Park in July, so is evidently thought a lot of at home. The going was very firm when she subsequently failed to justify the position of favourite at Lewes.

OLD FOLK

makes slightly more appeal than Mountain Ash for the Highgate Handicap. They finished first and fourth in a similar race here a month ago. Old Folk has to allow 10lb. for about a four lengths' beating, but he made all the running and may have had more in hand that the bare verdict indicates. Warrior Bold, all the better for his two races this season, is well fancied to gain a place.

There will be only a few starters for the Autumn Handicap at Haydock Park. Mr. Riley Smith's Cambridgeshire candidate,

OBLITERATED,

M. Peacock's only runner at the meeting, has yet to prove that he can stay a mile at racing pace. This might not be a real stamina test, and he should win.

ZINDER

is a confident choice for the Lowton Handicap. If he can reproduce home form with Laureat II. he should not be troubled with his light weight.

KRASSAWITZ

may win the Glanely Handicap at Chepstow at the chief expense of Flam. He did well in a long distance amateur riders' race on his last appearance, and apparently stays all right. Friary Court filly and Lover's Quarrel may also give J. Sirett winning mounts.

HOCKEY

SENIOR LEAGUE TIES

Corinthians and Wanderers in Opposition To-day

TO-DAY'S Senior League list brings the stronger sides against the weaker ones in the majority of cases. The exception is at Serpentine avenue, where Pembroke Wanderers entertain Corinthians. The result of this game may have an important bearing on the competition, as both are capable of offering a challenge to Trinity. Corinthians will hold an advantage in attack, their forwards being a faster and more combined lot than Wanderers can field, while there should be little in it at half-back. The home team will be stronger in defence, but Dolan, Franck and Power will have to excel themselves if they are to hold the opposing attack. Corinthians, on the whole, seem likely to acquire two valuable points.

Despite the pluck and fighting spirit of St. James's Gate, they can hardly expect to hold the Trinity side, who will hold a big advantage in speed and stickwork, while Railway Union should find sufficient scoring openings to beat Dalkey, despite the latter's sound defence. Three Rock Rovers are an uncertain quantity, but it will be a surprise if they fail to beat Avoca School, especially as they will have R. K. Pilkington out to strengthen the half-back line.

In the remaining matches the issue appears to be open, for neither Monkstown nor Y.M.C.A. are skilful in attack, and a snap goal might decide the issue either way, though Monkstown may be more strongly represented than they were last week. As both Naas and Imperial Tobacco Co. are also sounder in defence than attack, low scoring is probable at Oldtown also, with the odds slightly in favour of Naas.

Financial News & Notes

DUBLIN SUBDUED

GUINNESS HARDER

INDUSTRIALS IRREGULAR

Markets on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday displayed their usual week-end quietness, and prices were inclined to slip back in places, due to profit-taking.

The National Loans were well maintained, apart from the Fourth, which drooped to 104½. Land Bonds eased a shade, but War Loan hardened to 107⅞.

Banks were on the dull side, and Bank of Ireland Stock, Hibernians and Nationals tended lower.

Guinness improved to 147s. 6d. on a little buying.

Rails enjoyed a little more activity, but the tone was easier. Great Northern Ord. dipped to 12⅞ and the Guaranteed fell a point.

Ranks (Ireland) Ord. declined to 14s. 3d. x.d., and Burke Ord. fell 1s.

Goodbody Ord. and Irish Times 1st Pref. added pence, and Alex. Thom issues were sought after at higher levels.

There was less interest taken in British Industrials, and movements were erractic. Tobaccos held fairly steady, but Textiles shaded off. Dunlop Rubbers eased the turn, but Unilever Ord. rose 1s. and Vickers Ord. moved up to 38s. 9d. Shell Transport Ord. gave way, but Mexican Eagles showed a harder trend.

LONDON CHEERFUL

BIG TURNOVER IN MEXICAN EAGLES

While speculators were not disposed to open fresh commitments on a large scale immediately prior to the week-end, underlying sentiment on the London Stock Markets yesterday continued cheerful and the favourite issues in certain sections received further support. Professional profit-taking caused prices to fluctuate irregularly, but bargain hunters were in evidence and consequently significant declines were comparatively few. Lively dealings were seen in a number of recent popular issues, and the turnover in Mexican Eagle Oil shares, which were bought on the increased output and hopes of a substantial interim dividend, was extremely heavy. The Industrial Market again supplied some good features, prominent among them being the strength of Tube Investments and Bristol Aero, and activity in Associated British Pictures on the news that the company is taking over control of Gaumont British.

BRITISH FUNDS.

Gilt-edged stocks remained quiet but developed a better tone on the news that the Manchester Loan was a success. Local Loans and one or two other issues receded further owing to scattered sales, but War Loan and Conversion 3½ per cent. were bought and finished higher. Old Consols and Funding Fours were inquired for, but dealings were too limited to affect quotations.

FOREIGN BONDS.

Interest in Foreign Bonds slackened, but Far Easterns continued in demand at rising prices, and South American Bonds were steady throughout the session. In the European group Germans displayed a firmer tendency, and point rises occurred in Poland Sevens and Czechoslovakia Bonds. French Fours eased to 20½.

RAILS.

British Rails, apart from a little fresh demand for Southern Deferred, were neglected, but the market was free of sellers and prices held up well. Demand for Foreign Rails was small and centred mainly on San Paulo Ord., which rose ½ to 83 ex div. Argentine Rails, excepting a further shrinkage in Central Argentine, were unaltered.

INDUSTRIALS.

Operators in the Industrial Market showed more discrimination, and buying was usually due to specific reasons. Raleigh Cycles were notably firm on dividend hopes, Tube Investments gained further ground in response to a sustained demand in expectation of increased earnings, and Associated British Pictures spurted for the reason mentioned above. In the Motor group Austins showed up well, and the A.E.C. were stimulated by the news that the company has received a big order. Aircrafts assumed an improving trend under the lead of Bristols, and there was a moderate recovery in some of the Electrical Equipment issues. Crittalls, British Plaster Boards, and Prices Trust were other good features. On the other hand, Hudson's Bays, S.A. Wines, Courtaulds, and O.K. Bazaars suffered setbacks.

MINES.

The Mining groups attracted scant attention and disclosed few firm features. Dealings in Kaffirs resulted largely from realisations and prices moved against holders. Central Mining, West Wits., and Western Reefs were especially dull, and Marievales went back owing to disappointment with the latest cable. West Africans after opening steady followed the lead of their neighbours, and firmness of Broken Hill issues was the only point of interest among other gold shares. Diamond shares also displayed a weaker appearance, and among Copper shares Rio Tintos were a dull spot.

CORN EXCHANGE BUILDINGS COMPANY

The annual assembly of the Corn Exchange Buildings Company was held at the Corn Exchange, Burgh quay, Dublin, yesterday, at one o'clock, Mr. Frederick H. Hall in the chair. A dividend of £3 per share, plus a bonus of £1 per share, less income tax—equal to 8 per cent.—was declared for the year ended 31st August, 1936. The following directors were elected for the ensuing year:—Messrs. Frederick H. Hall, Wilfred Fitz-Gerald, James F. Mahony, William W. Warnock, Joseph J. Murtagh, William Brown, Joseph R. Coulter, Douglas T. Figgis, Michael E. Dillon.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET

GOOD SUPPORT IN PLACES

There was rather more doing in the Industrial Market yesterday, and although prices still moved in rather irregular fashion the general tone was described as cheerful.

The trans-Atlantic counters opened firm in response to overnight advices from Wall Street, but there was little fresh business passing on this side. U.S. Steel made the best showing around 77⅞ on reports of increasing steel production in America. "Emmies" eased, but Bairds Television rallied.

Among Cinema shares, Associated British Picture Ord. were in renewed demand on a report that the company is taking over control of Gaumont-British. The Ordinary shares of the latter were slightly harder. Cable nd Wireless stocks showed little change.

STEELS FIRMER.

With only a few exceptions, Iron and Steel descriptions displayed firmness, business continuing on a good scale. Tube Investments were again prominent on favourable trading reports, the shares further advancing 3s. to 90s. 6d. Stewarts and Lloyd's Deferred, however, left off easier. B.S.A. continued a good market, the demand being accompanied by talk of a forthcoming capital reorganisation scheme involving conversion of the 6 per cent. Debenture stock into a 4½ per cent. issue, and the writing-down of the Ordmary shares from £1 to 10s.

Electrical Equipments commanded a fair amount of attention, but only a few irregular changes occurred.

Aircrafts maintained a firm appearance, but few changes of note occurred in the early dealings. Bristols, however, came into demand, and after official hours showed a rise of 6s. 6d. on balance. Hawkers were another bright spot, but Rolls-Royce gave way.

MOTORS IRREGULAR.

The Motor group made a somewhat irregular showing, although several good gains were in evidence. Austins Motors put on 1s. 3d., Morris Preference were firm, but Fords were dull. Raleigh Cycles advanced 3s. 6d. on dividend expectations.

Among Stores shares John Barker were supported. Woolworths were steady

In the Provision and Catering section there was again a good turnover in Unilevers.

Textiles generally finished with a firm appearance. Paton and Baldwins rose 10½d., while Bradford Dyers improved, and Sewing Cottons rallied on the interim dividend.

Among Rayons, Courtaulds receded to 58s., and American Celanese to 5⅞.

Breweries gave a rather mixed display. Barclay, Perkins, Guinness, Watney Deferred and Hewitts were subject to week-end realisations.

In the Alcohol section South African Wines reacted to 53s 6d.

Tobaccos moved within narrow limits.

SHIPPING SHARES BETTER.

Some of the Shipping shares came in for renewed attention. Clan Line improved to 9½ on bonus hopes.

In the Land section Hudson's Bays were subject to further profit-taking sales, and finished 1s. 9d. lower at 31s. 9d.

The Miscellaneous section presented an irregular appearance, and movements, as a rule, were not extensive. British Oxygens were again subject to moderate profit-taking, and lost another 2s. Carrier Engineering came into renewed demand, and improved to 3¼. Associated Portland Cements were a few pence lower at 109s. 9d., as were Alphas at 49s. 3d. British Plaster Boards, on the other hand, were revived, and finished at 44s., in anticipation of the interim dividend.

EAGLES STILL THE FEATURE IN OIL MARKET

Interest in Mexican Eagles showed no sign of slackening yesterday—as a matter of fact, the turnover in the shares was quite as large as on any of the earlier days of the week. The market in the shares, however, was erratic, the price see-sawing as buying alternated with sales by speculators at the week-end. Excellent production figures for the past week were a helpful factor, output being the highest for any week for several years past. In view of the rapid progress being made, there is talk of the possibility of the company paying interim dividends on its Participating Preference and Ordinary shares. An initial advance in Mexican Eagle shares from 32s. 7½d. to 33s. 9d. was followed by end-of-the-week profit-taking sales, and the price reacted to 32s. 6d., a rally taking place to 33s., but at the close a trifling shrinkage was shown at 32s. 6d. The price of Canadians improved at one time to 19s. 1½d., but left off at 18s. 6d., at which a loss of 4½d. was shown. The rest of the Oil share market was overshadowed by activity in the Eagle issues, and business was never of much importance in other popular counters.

RUBBERS FIRM

Following upon a recovery in the commodity price, renewed firmness developed in the Rubber share market yesterday. There was no marked expansion in buying interest, but a fair amount of attention was directed to some of the better class issues, and, as holders displayed little inclination to reduce their commitments, transactions took place only at higher prices. Kuala Lumpur, United Sua Betong, and Malayalam were prominently active, while several other issues registered smaller advances. Firm conditions existed in the commodity section, and spot rubber sold at 7¼d. per pound. It is estimated that United Kingdom rubber stocks have been reduced by 2,500 tons during the past week.

CENTRAL HOTEL COMPANY

The annual meeting was held at the Central Hotel, Exchequer street, yesterday. There was a small attendance of shareholders. The Chairman, Mr. A. H. Huet, in proposing the adoption of the report and statement of accounts for the year ended 30th June, 1936, mentioned that the profits for the year under review were the best for the previous fourteen years; that the hotel was in better condition than ever to meet competition, and that the proposed alterations, which would begin shortly, it is hoped, would improve the earning capacity of the concern and add to the comforts of their clientele. The motion was seconded by Mr. J. Hall Cooper.

A dividend of 7½ per cent., less income tax, was passed; also £500 to Debenture redemption reserve, £250 to income tax reserve, £750 to equalisation of dividends reserve, and £311 18s. 7d. written off fittings and furniture.

The retiring director, Mr. A. H. Huet, was re-elected, and the retiring auditors, Messrs. Craig, Gardner and Co., were re-appointed.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to the chairman and directors and staff.

IRISH FAIR

SLIGO.—There was a good supply of cattle at Sligo fair yesterday, but the demand was somewhat slower than usual. Yearlings were from £8 to £10 10/-; two years old, £10 to £12 10/-; springers were a good trade from £13 to £16. There were no fat cattle or sheep on offer.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS

Morris Motors Ordinary

There was continued speculation in London over the persistent rumours that negotiations are taking place which may lead to the offer of a part of the Ordinary share capital of Morris Motors, Ltd., to the public in the near future. The company's authorised and issued share capital of £5,269,000 is divided into 3,000,000 £1 7½ per cent. Cumulative Preference shares, which were issued at par in July, 1926, and which are now quoted at 34s. each, and 2,269,000 £1 Ordinary shares, which are held by Lord Nuffield. The suggestion is that 500,000 of the Ordinary shares are to be marketed. While it is improbable that such strong rumours can be entirely without foundation, neither the company itself nor those in the city who might be expected to have knowledge of the subject could give any concrete information about the deal.

Pepper Committee Suspends Sales

The Pepper Control Committee has, for the time being, suspended sales until a full meeting can be summoned to decide future policy. This decision has been taken because the Committee has now liquidated approximately 50 per cent. of its stocks. In Mincing Lane it is regarded as probable that the Committee will now raise its selling price for white pepper to a figure between 4½d. and 5d. per pound. The present c.i.f. price is 4¾d., but it is not unlikely that the Committee's price will be raised above that figure, because the authorities are in no undue hurry to liquidate the balance of their stocks. Total stocks of white pepper in Britain are now 12,023 tons, compared with 16,657 tons at this time last year and 19,698 tons in April, 1935. The Committee does not hold, of course, all the present stock.

B.S.A. Prospects

Birmingham Small Arms have come into the limelight again, and are quoted at around 16s. 9d., as compared with the lowest this year of 9s. 3d. and below 8s. in 1935. There is no doubt that the company is doing very much better now than for a long time past, and, consequently, additional interest attaches to the directors' report due next month. This is expected to be accompanied by a capital reorganisation scheme providing for the replacement of the 6 per cent. Debentures by a 4½ per cent. issue, the payment of the Preference dividend arrears, and the writing down of the Ordinary stock units from £1 to 10s.

General Refractories

Among shares that have scarcely been in the limelight lately are General Refractories 10s. Ord., now quoted about 34s. 3d. The company makes heat-insulating material, and is understood to be doing an exceptionally large business at present owing to the revival in the iron and steel industries. The issued capital is £450,000, all in 10s. shares. For 1935 the dividend was raised from 12½ to 15 per cent., and it is confidently expected that for the current period there will be a further increase. If so, the shares would scarcely be overvalued at the present price.

Baird Television

Holders of Baird Television will not look twice at the report for the twenty-one months ended June 30. When they have looked at it once, they will wonder why the Deferred shares should be quoted at a premium of 130 per cent. Writes "Lex" in the Financial News. The accounts are yet another example of the long and dreary grind of development work which is needed when new inventions are in the early stages. Investors indeed, who cast their minds back to previous inventions of similar ilk—the motor car, the aeroplane, radio itself—will remember that in each of these cases many years have passed and many vicissitudes have occurred before the big money was earned. It will be just the same with television—many years must elapse before there can be that mass demand for television sets which will put bumper profits into the cash-boxes of Baird and/or others. The actual outlook of Baird itself must now look a little obscure. It seems likely that more capital will be required. It also seems clear that, even for the limited market for receiving sets at the present time, there is going to be pretty active competition. And on the transmission side, the coast is not clear. As far as the present writer is concerned, he can only hope that investors followed his advice during the pre-Olympia boomlet in television shares, and sheered off.

Associated British Picture Corporation

Negotiations between Messrs. Ostrer and Associated British Pictures with regard to the control of Gaumont-British have been proceeding for some time with a view to preventing it from passing under foreign control. Negotiations are now practically completed, and a joint statement of the position by Associated British and the Ostrer Brothers will be issued on Monday.

Gold Content of Czechoslovak Crown

The Czechoslovak Government has fixed the gold content of the crown at 31.31 milligrams —i.e., a devaluation of 16 per cent.

Gaumont British Control

To prevent control of the £6,250,000 Gaumont-British Picture Corporation passing into American hands, Mr. John Maxwell, Chairman and Managing Director of the Associated British Picture Corporation, is negotiating with the Ostrer Brothers, head of Gaumont British, for control of the company. It was officially announced last night that these negotiations, which have been going on for some time, are practically complete, and a joint statement will be issued on Monday.

DUBLIN DISTILLERS' COMPANY

LARGER SALES IN AMERICA

THE BURDEN OF HEAVY DUTY

Moving the adoption of the directors' report and statement of accounts at the forty-seventh ordinary general meeting of the Dublin Distillers' Company, Ltd., held in the Engineers' Hall, Dawson street, Dublin, yesterday afternoon, Mr. Henry J. Moloney, K.C., chairman, said that one hopeful feature of the trade was the slight increase in the general consumption of spirits during the past year, both in this country and Great Britain. For the past sixteen years each year had shown a decline in consumption consequent on the heavy additional duties imposed on spirits in 1926. That excessive duty had been maintained notwithstanding the strong and repeated protests of distillers and the licensed trade against such unjust and ruinous taxation. In Northern Ireland, where competition had been excessively keen, circumstances had arisen which had tended to abate that intensive competition, and their sales in that area were increasing.

For many years their trade had suffered from over-taxation and trade depression. If theirs was an ordinary manufacturing business dealing with some commodity in general demand, it would be a comparatively simple matter to decide what to do in a period of trade depression. A distillery was totally different. In the first place there was an enormous duty on their products, which was more than ten times the price per gallon it cost to make. In the next place, whiskey was not sold in that country under seven years old—a distillery must anticipate the market for seven years ahead and keep at least seven years' stocks on hands. These and other matters presented difficulties which did not exist in any other trade.

THE AMERICAN MARKET.

He was not repeating what he had said about the disappointment of the American market last year, but all that was changing. The public in America were being taught to appreciate and look for bouquet and flavour and quality, and it was because their whiskey answered this description that they had been able to dispose of a large quantity of bulk whiskey in that market during the year. The prospects of making a profit during the coming year were better than they had been. During the past twelve months they had realised a considerable quantity of whiskey and converted it into cash.

Mr. J. T. O'Reilly seconded the motion.

Mr. P. Burrowes Shiel paid a tribute to the directors for their work.

Mr. E. Davy said he regretted he had not any bouquets to throw to the directors on their balance sheet, but it was satisfactory for the shareholders to see that the loss last year was less by £2,000 than the loss in the previous year, and generally the balance sheet showed them to be in a much stronger position than for some years. He would like to congratulate the chairman and the directors for the splendid efforts they were making for the company and the shareholders. The prospects for the future were much brighter.

The report and statement of accounts were unanimously adopted.

Mr. Leonard Murphy, outgoing director, was re-elected on the motion of the chairman, seconded by Dr. L. G. Sherlock, and supported by Mr. J. Maguire, B.L.

The meeting also confirmed the election as a director of Mr. J. T. O'Reilly, who had been co-opted on the board last year.

Messrs. Craig, Gardner and Company were unanimously re-elected auditors on the motion of Mr. P. Burrowes Shiel, seconded by Mrs. O'Sullivan.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS

Bank of Adelaide.—Interim of 2 per cent. (same).

Benger's Food.—Interim dividend of 4½ per cent. (actual), less tax, against 3¾ per cent. (actual), tax free.

Callender's Cable and Construction Co.—Interim dividend of 5 per cent. on the Ordinary Stock. (Same.)

Federated-Selangor Rubber.—Profit for year £3,884 (£2,558); dividend 5 per cent., less tax (3 per cent.).

Gold Exploration and Finance Co. of Australia.—The net debit to profit and loss account for the year amounts to £11,738. With £38,738 brought forward this makes a total of £20,778 standing to debit of profit and loss, which is being carried forward.

H. and M. Rayne.—Final dividend of 10 per cent., plus bonus of 2½ per cent., making 17½ per cent. for the year. (Same, but on enlarged capital.)

Manchester Liners.—Profit, including income from investments, after providing for depreciation, £44,353 (against £46 229). Dividend of 5 per cent., less tax. (Same.)

Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway Co.—Dividend for the half-year of 2 per cent., making 8 per cent. for the year, compared with 9 per cent. last year.

Oriental Gas.—Final dividend of 4½ per cent., making 8 per cent. for the year. (Same.)

Oxendale and Co. (Proprietors).—The directors recommend the full half-year's dividend on the 10 per cent. Preferred Ordinary Shares. A similar payment was declared in February last, while in August, 1935, 2½ per cent was declared.

Pataling Rubber Estates—Interim of 3 per cent. actual, less tax.

Richmond Park Laundry.—Intimation is given that the dividend of 2½d. per share for the half-year ending October 31, 1936, will be paid to the Preference shareholders on November 2. The directors regret that they are unable to recommend payment of an interim dividend on the Ordinary Shares until the audited accounts for the year are received.

Rolls-Royce.—Interim dividend of 7½ per cent. This compares with 5 per cent. paid last year, but is not to be taken as an indication that the total distribution for the year will be increased.

Sherwood Starr Gold.—The report for the twelve months ended June 30 last states that the net profit (excluding depreciation) amounted to £8,255, compared with £14,887 for the previous year, and £3,807 was brought in. Depreciation absorbed £7,265, against £17,000, leaving a balance of £1,781, which it is proposed to carry forward. The last dividend was 12½ per cent., for 1933-34. Ore reserves at June 30 last were computed at 535,600 tons, having a value of 4.9 dwt. per ton.

Sungai Rubber Estate.—Profit for year amounted to £7,017 (£6,157); dividend 4 per cent., less tax (same).

Venterspost Gold.—The balance sheet of Venterspost Gold Mining Company as at June 30 last shows that expenditure on machinery, plant and buildings during the year amounted to £51,371, raising this account to £388,862, while shaft-sinking and equipment expenditure totalled £285,170, making this account up to £449,186. Expenditure on boreholes absorbed £50,148, preliminary expenses are shown at £8,483, while administration and general expenses required £36,088, raising this account to £56,712. The cash item stands at £10,931, while sundry creditors rank for £24,847, and the New Consolidated Goldfields advance is shown at £84,100. It is now stated that arrangements have been concluded with the New Consolidated Goldfields for financing the company's requirements for the time being.

Venesta.—The report for the year shows a rise in net profits of £29,684 to £111,929. Corresponding figure for the previous year was £82,245. Adding £100,581 brought forward there is a disposable balance of £212,318, out of which there has already been paid £28,402 for the year's Preference dividend, of £17,577 for the interim payment on the Ordinary capital. As already announced the final Ordinary dividend is at the rate of 6 per cent., making 10 per cent., less tax, for the year. General reserve receives £76,857 (against nil) and £10,000 is placed to tax reserve, leaving £53,539 to go forward. Additions to machinery and plant have been made or are in progress to provide for the increasing demand of the company's products.

GAVIN LOW'S SHEEP SALE

Although the supplies of sheep on offer at the sale held yesterday in Dublin Cattle Market by Messrs. Gavin Low Ltd., were much larger than at their corresponding sale last year, the number proved insufficient for the requirements of the big company of buyers present, which included several newcomers from Northern Ireland. Ewes of all classes were in keen demand, and a complete clearance was made at prices in advance of those ruling at recent sales. Wethers were forward in good numbers, and all changed hands at satisfactory prices, while lambs and rams also sold freely. Galway ewes made from 30/- to 31/6. Cheviots sold as follows:—Mr. John Kenny's, 34/- and 35/-; Mr. P. Maguire's, 34/-; Mr. P. Casey's, 34/-; Sir Alfa Power's, 33/- to 34/-; Mr. P. Farrington's, 32/-; Mr. T. Parker's, 27/- to 32/-; Mr. J. R. Morrison's, 30/-. Cross-breds:—Mr. J. Flannery's, 22/- to 28/-; Mr. E. O'Shaughnessy's, 21/-. Blackfaced horned Ewes:—Mr. J. E. Acton's, 15/- to 20/- (for 150); Mr. F. O'Boyle's, 14/- to 18/- (for 200); Mr. M. Prendergast's, 16/- to 18/6 (100); Mr. E. O'Shaughnessy's, 15/-. Wethers:—Mr. P. Divney's Galways, 36/-; Mr. E. O'Shaughnessy's ditto, 32/- to 34/6; Mr. P. Macken's, 35/- to 38/-; Mr. F. O'Boyle's blackfaced lorny, 23/-; Mr. A. Fox's Cheviot, 25/6; Mr. T. Kenny's Cheviot lambs, 24/6, and Mr. Dennis's black-legged cross lambs, 26/6. Messrs. Gavin Low's final sheep sale for this season will be held on Friday next, 16th October.

A Reuter message from Cayenne says that the lure of gold has brought so many British subjects from the Windward Islands into French Guiana that British interests there are demanding urgently the appointment of a British Consular Agent. Undeterred by the 1,000 miles sea journey the islanders are arriving in all sorts of craft to obtain employment in the new gold mines and in the gambler's hope of striking "pay-dirt."

Plans for a 10,000 mile air route linking Moscow to Washington have been under consideration at a conference held by the chief administration of civil aviation, U.S.S.R., according to Reuter.

PROVISIONS.

LONDON.—BUTTER—The market opened the week with a quiet and easier tone for colonial descriptions, but later values recovered slightly, as sellers were showing more resistance following improved buying inquiries. Supplies at the moment are rather light, especially of Australian. Dutch, however, continues in liberal supply, although it is reported that production is declining fairly rapidly. Liberal quantities of Baltic States sorts are still available, while arrivals of Siberian this week were heavy. At the close some irregularity ensued. LIVERPOOL.—WHEAT—With better overseas markets and bullish estimate of the Argentine acreage forward deliveries of wheat here improved from the outset, with slight fluctuations, substantial advance being registered, though disappointing second afternoon Argentine cables caused a moderate reaction. Steadier American cables, however, had a favourable influence, and prices, though not finishing at best, showed a liberal advance on the day; c.i.f. parcels unchanged to 6d. dearer. No. 1 Manitoba, end of October, sold at 41/6; Rosario Santa Fe, 63¼lb. January, 35/4½ to 35/5; choice white Karachi, afloat, 39/9, and a cargo of South Australian, middle of October, at 40/- per quarter; c.i.f. parcels of River Plate maize partially 1½d. dearer; afloat sold at 22/- to 22/3, October 22/3 to 22/4½, December and January 22/4½ to 22/6 per quarter. Wheat on the spot firm and 4d. to 1d. per cental dearer. MAIZE—Spot parcels steady to 1d. per cental dearer. FLOUR advanced 6d.; straight-run now 33/- per 280lb. ex-mill. Graded wheat futures opened ¼d. to 1d. per cental dearer, fluctuated moderately, one time showing ¼d. to 1½d. advance, closing steady, ¼d. to 1d. over previous night's. Ya 3/- to December 8/3½, December 8/2½, March 7/8½ per cental. Sales—200 loads.

PROVISIONS.

LONDON.—BUTTER—The market opened the week with a quiet and easier tone for colonial descriptions, but later values recovered slightly, as sellers were showing more resistance following improved buying inquiries. Supplies at the moment are rather light, especially of Australian. Dutch, however, continues in liberal supply, although it is reported that production is declining fairly rapidly. Liberal quantities of Baltic States sorts are still available, while arrivals of Siberian this week were heavy. At the close some irregularity ensued. Quotations:—New Zealand finest salted 100/- to 102/-, first grade 98/- to 99/6, Supplies at the moment are limited. Australian finest salted 100/- to 102/-, first grade 99/- to 100/-, second grade 97/- to 98/-, pastry 92/- to 94/-, finest unsalted 101/- to 103/-; Australian, 92/3; Danubian, on sample, 89/6 to 90/-; Siberian 93/- to 94/-, Ukranian 92/- to 94/-, per cwt.; Dutch rolls 111/- to 114/- per dozen lbs., English 1/3¼ per lb. HAMS firm, with improved inquiries circulating in connection with the Christmas trade. English, as to weight, 148/- to 180/-, American short cut 86/ to 90/-, Canadian ditto 94/- to 95/- per cwt. LARD firmer on a steady demand and light supplies. American refined 62/6 to 63/6, pails 68/- cartons 11lb. 66/6, ditto ¼lb. 68/6. Irish bladders 60/- to 72/-, boxes 64/- to 68/- per cwt. EGGS (Boro')—Market displayed firm features, and a steady demand prevailed, with English supplies on the light side. Shipments are only small from Northern Ireland, and continental arrivals not large. Fairly large buying has occurred in Chinese grades on Spanish account, while it is reported that shipments of Uruguayan eggs will be made direct to Spain. Quotations: Danish range from 12/3 to 14/-, Dutch all brown 12/9 to 16/-, mixed 10/9 to 13/6; Polish 5/- to 8/6, Lithuanian 8/6 to 12/-, Chinese 8/6 to 9/3. Ducks': English selected 21/-, national mark unofficial, hen specials 22/-, standard 21/-, medium 18/6, pullets' 16/-, all per 120.

LIVERPOOL.—BACON—In the weekly revision of prices in London Swedish was raised 3/- at Manchester, Polish 1/- to 2/-, and Liverpool Canadian 2/- to 3/-, and Irish 2/- per cwt. Continental scarce, and Danish held for 2/- to 3/- per cwt. premiums Danish, 98/- to 104/-; Swedish and Polish, 94/- to 100/-; Polish, 87/- to 93/- per cwt. Canadian Wiltshire firm at 87/- to 91/- for lean, 85/- to 89/- prime; Cumberlands, 76/- to 79/-; Irish scarce at 93/- to 98/-; American bellies, 80/- to 82/-; square shoulders, 67/- to 69/- per cwt.
